DR. SLUDER OF WASHINGTON U. FACULTY DIES

He was Professor of Lar-yngology and Internationally Known as Nose and Throat Specialist.

LEG AMPUTATED AFTER INFECTION

By Original Research He Made Many Advances in Medical Science—Wrote
Several Books.

Dr. Greenfield Sluder, internationally noted specialist in nose and throat diseases, director of the department of laryngology in the Washington University medical school for 23 years, and president of the American Laryngological Society, died last night at Barnes Hospital of pneumonia, following amputation of the right leg last Sunday, made necessary by infection.
He was 63 years old.
"He was one of the best professors of St. Louis and known all over the world," a medical associate said today.

Unable to Read Speech.
The pathetic phase of his career came a year ago last summer when he came to the zenith of his work.
He went to New York to make his inaugural address as president of the American Laryngological Society, but was unable to read it itself because of illness. His hard work was a contributing cause to the illness.

Dr. Sluder is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ella Cochran Sluder, two daughters, Miss Virginia Sluder and Miss Martha Sluder, and a son, John Sluder. The family residence is at 4935 Maryland avenue.
Dr. Sluder had offices at 3542
Washington boulevard.

Funeral services will be at Christ Church Cathedral at 3 p. m. tomorrow. Dean William Scarlett of the cathedral, in Washington attending a church convention, is expected back in time to conduct the services. Interment will be in Bellevue Cemetery.

Had Foreign Students.
The fame of Dr. Sluder was such that St. Louisans who traveled to Vienna and other European medical centers for treatment sometimes were asked: "Why do you come here when you have that great man, Dr. Sluder, in your own city?"

Students from foreign lands
came to St. Louis to take postgraduate studies under Dr. Sluder, and then returned to their homes
to spread his praise.
He was the inventor of the general anesthetic in general use for the removal of tonsils.
He collaborated with Dr. A. A.
Ewing in discovering a cause of headache in disturbances of the nose and throat, and also discovered
the causes of headache in disturbances of the nerves in relation to the sinuses.

Discovered New Disease.
In a paper read before a medical convention in 1922, Dr. Sluder announced the discovery of what he termed a disease previously unknown to medical science. The disease manifested itself in the form of a headache and commonly was diagnosed as neuralgia.
After all attempts having failed, examination finally disclosed a rare disease, apparently insignificant, at the tip of the nose, and the pain ceased. Treatment was applied to this rare spot, and the pain ceased. Later the pain returned and examination showed that the disease had reappeared. After further treatment a cure was effected, Dr. Sluder said.

The value of alcohol for injection
in the nasal ganglion in treatment of malignant headaches was discussed in a discussion led by Dr.
Sluder at the American Congress
of Internal Medicine in 1924.

He told of a woman patient he treated for 20 years who complained of the "lower half" type of headache, with pains shooting
from the nose around to the base of the brain. Four injections of alcohol drove the pain steadily backward to the nerve termini of the nose.

BYRD TO SAIL TODAY ON SOUTH POLE EXPEDITION

Will Take Whaler Larsen From San Pedro, Cal., to New Zealand, Where He Will Join Three Other Vessels of Party.

By the Associated Press.
SAN PEDRO, Cal., Oct. 10.—Commander Richard E. Byrd and his followers prepared to leave the United States today on a long journey which will take them into the Antarctic regions for from one to three years.

The explorer, who flew over the North Polar area, and who spanned the Atlantic by airplane, will essay to "fill in the blank spaces on the map" of the Antarctic region.
Aboard the whaler C. A. Larsen, Byrd and his companions were ready to start at flood tide today for Dunedin, New Zealand, where they drive into the South Polar zone begins. Across the Pacific Ocean they will follow three other vessels of the Byrd expedition. The Sir James Clark Ross, the Eleanor Bolton and the City of New York, already well on their way to New Zealand. All four of the ships carry great stores of supplies, including airplanes which Byrd will employ in his long exploration of the so-called greatest frozen area on earth. Eighty-two men will aid the Commander.

After their arrival here from New York by the Panama Canal yesterday, the Larsen was loaded with the last stores for the expedition.
Sheep, cows, explosives, airplanes, transportation equipment and other important supplies rode in is hull today. When workmen

had finished their task, 10,000 tons of supplies had been stowed away.
The party includes Harold G.
June, Bernt S. Balchen, Dean C.
Smith, airplane pilots; E. J. De-mas, A. F. Rubler, Jeremiah de Cecilia, airplane mechanics; Martin Rohne, sail maker; Richard J.
Brophy, business manager; Ralph Shropshire, hydrographer; Capt. A.
S. Larker, Marine Corps aviator;
Sergeant Benjamin Rother, mechanic;
Charles Lofgren, personnel manager; Russell Owen, newspaper man, and William Vanderveer, photographer.

After supervising loading operations yesterday the Commander toured the Hollywood film colony with Mrs. Byrd, who is here to bid her husband Godspeed on his exploration ship. Despite the danger of the undertaking, she was calm and cheerful. Last night several of the party amused themselves at theaters.

As the Larsen slips past the breakwater, American Legion members, shipping craft, seamen and citizens arranged to give the party
a farewell. The whaler will be escorted to the open sea by harbor vessels.

Byrd figures to arrive at Dunedin about Nov. 5, where the Larsen will join the three other ships. In month and a half later he hopes to penetrate the 400-mile ice barrier and be riding in the open stretches of the Ross Sea, approximately 1000 miles from the Pole.
Somewhere in this area his base operations will be established.

NEW GOLD BOOM IN ALASKA

Seven Dredges at Work Near Fairbanks Employ Hundreds.
By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—With seven gravel dredges at work extracting gold in the vicinity of Fairbanks, Alaska, things are looking up in the land of the prospector.
Representatives of the Government-owned Alaska railroad reported today to the Interior Department that the installation of the dredges has revived the town of Fairbanks to such an extent that conditions bordered on boom times. One of three companies operating dredges employs 700 persons, and the log cabins, vacant
since the gold rush of the nineties,
now shelter new types of gold diggers. Business activity in Fairbanks has stimulated the coal mines at Suntrana on the Healy River, which have increased their output to meet the needs of the dredge operations.

'ALIMONY MARTYR' IN JAIL 4 YEARS, FREED

War Veterans' Organization Pays Amount Due at Rate of $20 a Month.

By the Associated Press.
WILLOWS, Cal., Oct. 10.—Samuel W. Reid, widely known as California's "alimony martyr," was released from jail yesterday after serving four years for contempt of court and refusal to comply with an order to pay $20 a month to support of his child.

The order was issued when Mrs. Reid obtained a divorce and custody of their child, Leta Mrs.
Reid was remarried. Reid said at the time he would pay $20 a month and more for his child's support, if it were placed in what he considered proper hands. He objected to being cared for by his wife's relatives. He announced he would
"rot in jail" before he would pay while the child was reared by persons objectionable to him.

For a long time Reid let his beard grow and once was examined
for his sanity. He was found sane.
Recently he was escorted by the Sheriff to San Francisco to attend
a reunion of the 363d Regiment.
Sheriff Heard was found guilty of contempt of court yesterday and was fined $250.

NEW INDICTMENT RETURNED AGAINST N. SCOTT MAGRUDER

Former Head of Mound City Trust Co. to Be Tried Jan. 14 for Embezzlement.

A new indictment against N.
Scott Magruder, former president of the Mound City Trust Co., charging embezzlement and false entries in violation of the national banking laws, was returned by a Federal grand jury at Cape Girardeau yesterday and will be substituted for an indictment returned last May and which was found to be defective. Magruder is under bond of $10,000 to answer to the first indictment.

A continuance of the Magruder case for the term was ordered last Monday. Federal Judge Davis, before whom it will be tried, but yesterday this order, which would have delayed the trial until after March 18, the first day of the next term, was vacated, and a trial set for Jan. 14.

DETECTIVE FOUND GUILTY OF GRAFT IN PHILADELPHIA

Herbert W. Layre, Convicted of Collecting Money
From Saloon Keepers for Protection.

MEMBER OF FORCE FOR 20 YEARS

Charles C. Beckman, Suspended Captain of Detectives, Attempts to Resign
During Civil Service Trial

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—Herbert W. Layre, a city detective, was convicted by a jury in Common Pleas Court yesterday of extortion and bribery in accepting money
from saloon keepers for protection.

Layre is the first of the police arrested as the result of the special grand jury's investigation of bootleggers and police corruption to be convicted by a jury. He had been a member of the police force for 20 years.

Among those who heard the verdict were former Police Captain William C. Kneel, under whose command Layre had served, and John W. Sells, another detective, both of whom had pleaded guilty
on the same charge.

Sentence was deferred by Judge
James G. Gordon Jr., as counsel for Layre made a motion for a new trial and was allowed four days in which to file his reason.
Judge Gordon refused a request to admit all three prisoners to bail pending sentence.

35 Policemen Under Arrest

About 35 other policemen and police officials are under arrest in connection with the investigation, but their cases have not yet been submitted to the October grand jury.

Taking the stand for the prosecution, John Englemann, a saloon keeper and confessed collector for the police district over which Kneel had supervision, testified that Layre had collected $500 weekly graft "at least five times between March and August of this year." Englemann identified Sells as the man who had regularly called at his saloon for the money, which, he said, was contributed by 20 saloon keepers at the rate of $25 each a week.

The witness, a former brewer,
said the collections for police protection began in March, when Kneel was recalled from the pension list and made commander of the newly organized Tenth District.

Captain's Resignation Refused.
Charles C. Beckman, suspended Captain of Detectives, who was characterized him jury investigation to corruption to be
"unfit to hold any public office,"
yesterday attempted to resign from the police bureau rather than continue with his trial before the Civil Service Commission.

The resignation was rejected,
however, and while Beckman's refusal to resign summarily ended his trial, William H. Kreider, president of the commission, announced that a verdict will be returned on the evidence which already has been presented.

Beckman was charged with conducting an office after the special grand jury's report characterized him as corrupt and
The District Attorney said Beckman had large sums of money in excess of his salary for which he could not give a satisfactory explanation. Testimony given before the commission tended to show that Beckman had been in the company of Max "Boo" Hoff, of whom the District Attorney once said, is "the king of bootleggers."

Says Client's Mother Is Ill.
The commission, which under the laws of the municipality, is the only power which may discharge a police officer, had heard the case for the prosecution and was prepared to continue to hear Beckman
in his own defense when Beck-man's lawyer announced that Beckman would not be in court.

The attorney said that Beckman
had sent his resignation to the Director of Public Safety because his aged mother was seriously ill as the result of the notoriety attached to her son's trial. Between his mother's life and his public position, the attorney said, Beckman chose his mother's welfare.

When District Attorney J. Monaghan learned of Beckman's monograph, he disclosed that a subpoena had been issued calling Beckman before the August grand jury again, and also reiterated the statement that Beckman will be prosecuted criminally.

The special grand jury today began what District Attorney Monaghan said was the most important case of the year.

MAN IN AUTO SHOT IN POLICE CHASE AFTER ACCIDENT

Thomas Burns of Milwaukee Wounded When Friend Drives Off After Hitting Patrolman.

OFFICERS SAY THEY WERE FIRED ON FIRST

Clarence Keith, Driver, Arrested—Policemen Henrion and Peppmiller Exonerated by Superior.

Thomas Burns, 24 years old, of Milwaukee, who came to St. Louis in search of employment Monday and went out last night for a "good time," was shot and seriously wounded by police early today
when an automobile in which he was riding with a friend struck a policeman and failed to stop.

The friend, Clarence Keith, 27, of Milwaukee, is under arrest, as is also a Negro acquaintance, George Anderson. The three were riding in an automobile driven by Keith at 1:30 a. m. when, at Twentieth street and Franklin avenue, the car struck and slightly injured Patrolman William Klesling, who was crossing the street with Patrolmen Edward Peppmiller and Edward Henrion. A fender struck Klesling and he suffered lacerations
when knocked to the pavement.

Keith Sped Away

Keith sped away, although the police called to him to halt and blow their whistles. Anderson got out at Twentieth and Lucas avenue, and Keith was parking the car
at Twentieth and Morgan when the three policemen approached.

Keith pulled out and once more sped away from the police. This time they fired a dozen shots at the car, the bullet striking Burns in the right chest. He collapsed when the car was several blocks away.
Keith halted a policeman and the wounded man was taken to City Hospital. He was unconscious.

Keith admitted drinking yesterday afternoon, but not afterward. However, when Anderson, the Negro, was arrested, he said he and the two white men had emptied two pints of whiskey after midnight. At the time their automobile struck the policeman, they were driving to a resort on Division street, the Negro said.

No Weapon in Car.
The police reported that before they fired at the car, two shots were fired at them by someone in the car. Both Keith and Anderson denied this. No weapon was found in the car.

Keith, an automobile mechanic,
came here four months ago and worked for a time at a Morgan street repair shop. On a visit back to Milwaukee, he induced Burns to come here to work, and they arrived Monday.

FOURTH MAN HANGED FOR MURDER OF JOLIET WARDEN

Charles Shader, 21, Flips Away
Cigarette as He Mounts Gallows at Prison.

By the Associated Press.
JOLIET, Ill., Oct. 10.—Calmly
flipping away a cigarette as he mounted the scaffold and shouting
a nonchalant farewell to his jailers, Charles Shader, three times a killer before his twenty-first birthday, went to his death on the gallows here today, the fifth man to pay with his life for the killing of a Deputy Warden of Joliet Penitentiary in a prison break two years ago.

Shader was hanged in the Will
County Jail yard at 5:50 o'clock.
He was pronounced dead 24 minutes after the trap was sprung. He spent his last night quietly, following a visit by his mother yesterday.

Shader, only 21, had become reconciled to his fate a week ago
and spent the intervening time checking off chalk marks on his cell wall, each mark representing the passing of an hour left to live.
"Good-by, Jim," he called to a guard as the noose was being adjusted. The guard answered, and a moment later the trap was sprung.

Shader was one of seven men who escaped from Joliet Penitentiary after killing Peter Klein, a guard. Shader was sent to prison for killing a policeman in Chicago and also admitted killing his father
after a quarrel over the man his father wanted his sister to marry.

Three of the convicts who escaped with Shader were hanged
last May after they and others had made a second break for liberty from the Will County Jail. One of them was killed in the attempt and one other escaped. One convict who escaped in the original prison break also still is at large.

FORD SEEKS 1898 AUTO AS EXHIBIT IN PATENT SUIT

With General Motors and Others, He Has Been Sued
by Packard.

By the Associated Press.
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Oct. 10.—
Search has been instituted by Henry Ford, General Motors and other automobile manufacturing interests for a specific type of automobile manufactured before 1900, discovery of which is expected to save millions for the defendants in a patent infringement suit brought by the Packard Motor Car Co.

Garages and barns of the wealthier set at Newport have been subjected to an intense search by Ford agents. They are looking for an electric vehicle made by the Pope Manufacturing Co. in 1898,
at that time called a "Dox a Dox."
It had seats for four passengers,
two of whom sat with their backs
to the others.

The automobile is thought to have been equipped with demountable and interchangeable wheels, a vital factor in the search, for it is with reference to this phase of construction that the patent suit is concerned.

SMITH ANNOUNCES HE WILL MAKE HIS STAND ON TARIFF CLEAR IN SPEECH

Indicates He Will Discuss Subject in Louisville Saturday in Reply to Curtis
on Underwood Bill.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Gov.
Smith will start tonight on a trip to the South and its border States, delivering a speech Saturday night at Louisville. Reports were prevalent that Chairman Raskob
wanted the Democratic presidential nominee to make at least one speech before reaching Kentucky Saturday morning, but it was doubtful whether he could persuade him to do so.

As the schedule now stands, the Governor will make only rare platform appearances tomorrow at Richmond, Va., and Raleigh, Greensboro, Salisbury and Charlotte, N. C., and devote Friday to receptions and conferences with prominent Democrats at Chattanooga and Nashville, Tenn. Asked regarding reports that he might make an address in Nashville,
Smith said he preferred not to talk about that.

Meets F. D. Roosevelt.

Gov. Smith definitely announced today that before he returned to Albany 10 days hence, he would speak at Sedalia, Mo., Oct. 16, and at Chicago, Oct. 19. Both speeches will be at night.

One of Gov. Smith's first calls was Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for Governor of New York, who discussed both national and State affairs with the Governor. He asserted afterwards that he did not think it was necessary for the Governor to go farther southward than the southern border states for speeches, as some have urged him to do.

Others who called on the Governor before he went out to fill an engagement with a dentist included Mrs. Belle Moskowitz, director of publicity for his campaign, and a political leader, Edward J. Flynn, Bronx party leader, and William
H. Woodin, member of the Union League, a Republican organization,
who has come out for Gov. Smith.

May Discuss Tariff.
The Governor indicated that he might discuss the tariff in his Louisville speech.

HICKMAN ACCEPTS VERDICT AS FINAL

Condemned Slayer Thankful to Court for Time to Prepare for Death.

By the Associated Press.
SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal.,
Oct. 10.—In a signed statement addressed to the Associated Press, William Edward Hickman, sentenced to death for the murder of 12-year-old Marian Parker, today confessed he was a "guilty sinner"

and thanked the State Supreme Court for giving him time to prepare for death.
He denied to Warden James B.
Holohan that he had tried to commit suicide in his cell, as had been reported.

"I have made up my mind to take my medicine," he said, "and I am not going that way."
The youth is sentenced to hang Friday, Oct. 19. Refusal of the United States Supreme Court to consider an appeal in his case virtually has barred the way to further legal maneuvers by the defense, and Gov. C. C. Young has announced he will not intervene.

Hickman's statement follows: "I know very well that I have been a most guilty sinner. Nevertheless,
I have confessed my sins and I am now trying to do what is right. I am very sorry for having offended God and man. I deserve punishment and ask no personal favors.
I am thankful that the Supreme Court has given me time to prepare for death. Please ask the people in the name of God, to pray for us condemned men here at San Querentin Prison. All glory be to our Father in Heaven and on earth good will toward men.

Gov. Smith's parade here next Tuesday afternoon will take the residential candidate over a route from the West End, through the business district and into East St. Louis. It was announced today by a committee in charge of arrangements.

The parade, consisting entirely of automobiles, will begin at Jefferson Memorial in Forest Park and will proceed eastward over the following route:

Twelfth and Locust to Twelfth and Washington, then on Washington to Eighth, on Eighth to Chestnut, east on Chestnut to Broadway, north on Broadway to Washington, east on Third street and across Eads bridge to East St. Louis.

The Reception Committee, consisting of approximately 100 men and women, will assemble at Jefferson Memorial to await the governor's arrival.

During the parade his train will move to East St. Louis, where it will board it at the close of the ceremonies. The arrangement gives St. Louisans an opportunity to see the New York Governor.

The special is scheduled to leave St. Louis at 6 o'clock for Chicago. Previously it had been planned to give a banquet for Gov. Smith at the Coliseum, but his schedule made necessary a revision of plans.

SENSATIONAL CATCH FURNISHES CLIMAX

Plays to Foul Line to Grab Ball With His Gloved Hand for Final Out of World Series.

By E. ROY ALEXANDER.
A TALL man with behemoth shoulders, a great barrel of a chest, trim hips and absurdly small ankles—Babe Ruth, of course—stood in left field at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon with his back to the diamond, and as he polished his sun glasses with a handkerchief, owlishly eyed the shouting, waving mob of sun-drenched derelives in the bleachers.

It was just a few seconds before play was called in what was to be the last game of the 1928 world series and one in which the great ball player was destined to show his skill at the bat and in the field. Their war with shouts, some of them obnoxious and most of them directed at the brown-faced Babe in left field.

Babe Turns to Pantomime.
From the bleachers it was apparent that Ruth had begun to stop back to the jeering crowd. His lips moved and faintly could be heard the sound of his voice. It was wasted effort and the Babe recognized it. He turned to pantomime.

Dropping his sun glasses into his gloved right hand, he raised his left hand and held it palm to his face. Even the most near-sighted of the bleacherites caught the meaning as he delicately held an almost bulbous nose delicately between thumb and forefinger. It was the same gesture he might have employed over a particularly ancient piece of Camembert.

The bedlam in the bleachers died away. Ruth turned to the diamond, moved a little toward center field to be in the right place for the Cardinals' left-handed lead-off man, Ernie Osratti.

BABE RUTH and Mike, the chimpanzee, helped each other pass the afternoon pleasantly when wet grounds postponed Monday's game between the Yankees and Cardinals.

stop and walked, with his characteristic dainty step to his place in the field.

Told to Get a Helmet.
"Lay off them specs," shouted a bull-roared fan in the bleachers. "You need a football helmet. One of them flies is going to smack you on the skull."

There were other shouts. Some not too elegant. This time Ruth apparently realized that he had not made a good start. He eyed the stand impassively and turned to the business of playing left field.

Cheers Replace Catcalls.
After Ruth's first home run, in the fourth, there was a new note in the shouts from the left field seats. The admiration that every man has for athletic perfection was at work now, and there were no catcalls.

Grimacing widely Ruth stood in front of his gallery with his legs apart, and with sweeping hand and arm again and again pantomimed the trajectory of his hit over the pavilion roof. He laughed and clapped his left hand against the palm of his glove in an elephantine, clumsy representation of great joy.

Then he held up two fingers, a pledge of duplication of his feat. It was a promise soon to be fulfilled.

Meanwhile, however, the good natured heckling of the player had been resumed. A new cry was raised from the bleachers:

"You going home tonight, Babe?" came the cry. (The score then stood 2 to 1 with the Cardinals on the long end.)

That was a question on which, apparently, the Babe did not care to commit himself. Chewing gum busily he looked here and there in the bleachers as though looking for someone he could not find.

Finally, as though overcome by the sight of the crowd, he threw his gloved hand up to his eyes, like a man cutting off the sight of something disagreeable, and turned to the play again.

Then Comes Second Home Run.
Ruth's second homer in the seventh inning came after umpire Pfirman had ruled that a third strike, sneaked across the plate by Sherdel, wasn't a strike at all, because time had been called. As Ruth trotted around the bases he was loudly booed.

With the mellowness that comes with a life in which hoots and jeers are plentifully commingled, however, the Babe merely grinned and as he crossed the plate, swept his hand upward in another voiceless sketch of his hit and raised his cap exultantly to the grandstand. That put the bleachers in a brief fury and the left field bleacherites fairly growled as Ruth trotted out.

Some few unsportsmanlike fans threw pop bottles down to the field. Ruth picked them up one at a time and tossed them to the sidelines, pausing between each throw to shake his finger reprovingly. He said something, too. In the hubbub it was as well that no one heard it.

"You going home, Babe?" someone shouted. Ruth nodded vigorously and went through a brief pantomime of picking up a suitcase and carrying it away. The bleachers realized that it was all over and his sardonic grin brought only a feeble response.

Third Homer Brings Cheers.
When he came to the plate in the eighth, Ruth was roundly booed. He raised his cap high to crowd and then socked another home run off Alexander's pitching, dropping the ball between two photographers on the pavilion roof. The bleachers led in the cheering as he trotted around the bases.

The last passage between the slugger and his gallery was pleasant. Bubbling over with satisfaction over his day at bat Ruth stood on one leg, stork-like, in front of the bleachers at the beginning of both the Cardinals' eighth and ninth, and slapping his hands before him, threw back his head and laughed. The booming of his voice carrying to the back rows of the stand. The crowd laughed and cheered with him.

It was soon over. As Frankie Frisch came to bat in the ninth, with two out and two on, Ruth turned to the stand and held his nose again, as he had in the first inning. A moment later Frisch had sent a high pop foul back of third base.

Sensational Catch Is Climax.
Fleeting, smoothly, Ruth shot from his position, and sped lightly across the field along the line of boxes. It was almost an impossible chance. Catcalls and jeers came from the bleachers, then suddenly died away.

With a last effort Ruth shot out his right hand, then swung it high over his head as he continued speedily toward the dugout. In his glove, for all to see, was the ball.

The game was over. And Ruth, the hero of this world series, was going home.

SEVEN SPEEDERS PAROLED ON TAKING 30-DAY PLEDGE
Sentence and Fine Stayed of Youth Whose Auto Collided With That of Another Driver.

James Bacott, 18 years old, 1114A Cass avenue, was fined $30 and sentenced to 30 days in the Workhouse by Police Judge Beck yesterday on a charge of careless driving. Bacott's car collided with a car driven by Dr. Arthur Kimball, 2700 North Grand boulevard. The sentence was stayed on good behavior.

Thomas Simmons, 3120 Sheridan avenue, was sentenced to 10 days in the workhouse on a charge of speeding.

Seven speeders were paroled by Acting Judge Blocher on their promise not to drive for 30 days. Those paroled were: Marshall Duncan, 2304 South Third street; Russell Berg, 3627 Fillmore street; Elmer Stoye, 4065A Hartford street; John McBain, 2943 Montgomery street; Joseph Kapler, 2825 Lyon street; and Harley Staff, 2032 Prairie avenue.

CORONER'S JURY LAYS POISONING TO MRS. GIFFORD

Finds Elmer and Lloyd Schamel Died of Doses of Arsenic Catawissa Woman Gave Them.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
PACIFIC, Mo., Oct. 10.—A Coroner's jury sitting here yesterday in belated inquests on three alleged victims of Mrs. Bertha Gifford, confessed poisoner of Catawissa, Mo., found in each instance that death was caused by arsenic poisoning.

In the cases of Elmer John Schamel, 7 years old, and of Lloyd G. Schamel, 9 years old, the jury found that death was due to "arsenic poison administered by Mrs. Bertha Gifford." Prosecutor F. W. Jenny, before the jury made its report, testified that Mrs. Gifford had admitted giving the children the deadly chemical in their medicines.

In the case of "Ed" Brinley, Catawissa farmer who died May 16 after being "nursed" by Mrs. Gifford, the jury found death was due to "arsenic poison administered by persons unknown." Mrs. Gifford, in the confession that was made public, also admitted feeding arsenic to Brinley, but for some inexplicable reason, this fact was not communicated to the jurors.

Dr. Harry G. Bristow, toxicologist, reported that "in each case arsenic was found in the viscera in such quantities as to cause death."

A spectator in the jury room, at the Thiel's Undertaking Parlor, before the Coroner opened the inquest, was tall, lean, sunbaked "Gene" Gifford, former bootlegger and husband of the indicted woman. He nodded unsmilingly to acquaintances and did not engage in conversation.

Dr. James Stewart, State Health Commissioner, who was deeply interested in the case because of the inexact death certificates, said he was completely satisfied with the clearing up of the causes of death. He said that he did not plan to examine other bodies of "patients" of Mrs. Gifford who died under suspicious circumstances.

Three weeks ago, under the direction of Dr. Stewart and of prosecuting attorney F. H. Jenny of Franklin County, the bodies of Brinley and the Schamel children were exhumed. Brinley had been buried about 18 months, the Schamel children about three years. Brinley was a neighbor of the Giffords. He died in acute pain several hours after he was carried drunk into the Gifford "house of mystery" on Big Bend road between Pacific and Catawissa.

The grand jury that indicted Mrs. Gifford learned she had purchased arsenic, supposedly for rats who were "after her chickens," a few hours before Brinley died in her home.

The Schamel children were the sons of George J. Schamel, a farm hand who worked for Gene Gifford, husband of the confessed poisoner.

They died within a month of each other in similar circumstances. The attending physician, following the three deaths, recommended post-mortem examinations to the families concerned, but did not make a report to the County Coroner. No autopsies were performed until, on Sept. 18, Prosecuting Attorney Jenny asked Franklin County Coroner Dewhirst to assemble a Coroner's jury, and the long delayed post-mortems, following the exhumation of the bodies, got under way.

Mrs. Gifford had confessed giving arsenic to Brinley and the Schamel boys, shortly before they died, but the State, up to today, lacked proof that arsenic poisoning was in each case the cause of death. It was the anomalous feature of the Gifford case.

YOUTH KILLS GIRL BECAUSE HE WAS TOO POOR TO WED

Kansas City Waiter, Failing to End Life With Poison, Suffers Skull Fracture by Leap in Jail.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 10.—Glen Jenkins, 20 years old, who surrendered to police last night after stabbing his sweetheart to death and swallowing poison, tried to commit suicide today by diving from his second-tier cell to a tile floor, 18 feet below, at police headquarters. His skull was fractured. His condition is said to be serious.

Jenkins was a waiter at a downtown athletic club.

The youth, who told police he killed Marie Young, 21-year-old telephone operator, because he loved her and could not afford to marry, leaped head first over the balcony railing in front of his cell when the door was opened for the morning roll call.

Jenkins told police that several times he and Miss Young had enacted her murder. In playful scuffles he said he would place his hands on her throat as if to choke her. "I wouldn't mind dying that way," he quoted her as saying.

The only trouble in their relationship, Jenkins told police, was that they could not afford to marry. Their wedding set for Aug. 15 had been postponed.

His mother, Mrs. Lillian Jenkins, was hysterical today. Neither she nor the youth's half sisters, Miss Laverne Wilson and Miss Annie Wilson, could account for the break in his ordinarily well-ordered life. The family came from Jenks, Mo., about five years ago. Jenkins' father died about 15 years ago.

Jenkins, who said his pay was only $30 a month, took Miss Young out in an automobile last night and stabbed her.

Jenkins left the body in his car and drove from Fairland Park, where he had stabbed her, to the police station. Just before he entered the station he drank poison. He collapsed, but was revived by a physician.

Jenkins told police, they said, that "we have been keeping company a year and a half. Marie was discouraged, too, and said she wanted to die. But she didn't know I was going to kill her."

"This afternoon I bought a butcher knife at a 10-cent store," police quoted the youth as saying. "Then I bought some poison. I rented a motor car and met her when she got off from work tonight."

"I drove to Fairland Park and didn't tell her what I was going to do. I was going to kill her so I would have to hang. I stabbed her three times."

poisoner was indicted for murders which had never been shown to have taken place.

The exact amounts of the poison, as calculated by the toxicologist, were not given in the report. These details are withheld, it is understood, for subsequent use at Mrs. Gifford's trial, which will open Nov. 19.

Mrs. Gifford, following her confession, told authorities that she gave her victims doses of arsenic "no larger" than doses she took herself. Dr. Bristow said today that Mrs. Gifford could not have remained alive had she taken as much arsenic as was found in the vital organs of Brinley or the two Schamel children.

Mrs. Gifford's explanation of her surreptitious feeding of arsenic to others was that it had "helped" her and that "it might help others."

Lloyd Chatters, 8 years old, 1652 Gay avenue, East St. Louis, suffered a possible skull fracture and bruises last night when he ran in front of a machine driven by Ivory Dresdel, 2136 Gaty avenue, while playing in the street at Seventeenth street and Central avenue.

Herman Schneider of 4174 1/2 Farlin avenue, suffered a fractured skull yesterday when an automobile in which he was riding with Oscar Mudd, 2839 Ridgeway avenue, St. Louis County, was struck by a machine driven by Fred Williams, 1400 South Vandeventer avenue, at Shaw boulevard and Tower Grove avenue.

Whisky Found on Curb.
Following the accident a witness told a policeman he saw Williams take a basket from his machine and put it on the curb. Investigation disclosed the basket held two jugs each containing a gallon of whisky. A charge of transporting liquor was placed against Williams in addition to one of careless driving.

CITY COURTS PAINTING CONTRACT CUT $4000

Lower Bid Obtained on Work As Result of Research Bureau's Protest.

As the result of a protest made by the Bureau of Municipal Research, the bid of the J. W. O'Connell Painting Co. for painting the interior of the Municipal Courts Building has been reduced from $14,973 to $10,900, the price at which the work will be done.

The Board of Public Service in July authorized an "emergency" letting of the painting contract, without the customary advertising for bids. Director of Public Safety Brod stated that it was desired to get the work done in the vacation period, while the courtrooms were not in use. Brod furnished a list of four concerns. Those four, and no others, were notified of the letting.

All four submitted bids, which were opened Aug. 10. The O'Connell company's bid, $14,973, was the lowest. The others were M. Faust Painting Co., $17,985; Josh Lewis Painting Co., $16,894; and Sinclair Painting Co., $16,950.

Director Brod recommended acceptance of the O'Connell bid, and the contract was sent to the Comptroller. Here the objection of the Bureau of Municipal Research was encountered. C. W. Atkins, director of the bureau, told the Comptroller that, under State law, lettings of contracts more than $10,000 must be advertised three successive weeks in the City Journal.

The City Counselor's office upheld this opinion, and a new letting was ordered, with the required amount of advertising as preliminary.

When the bids were opened today, the O'Connell Co. was again the lowest, with $10,900. The other concerns which bid the first time did not submit bids, but four other bids were submitted, of which two were lower and two higher than the O'Connell company's original bid. The specifications were the same at both lettings.

Brod said he could not explain the substantial reduction in price. It has been stated that the purpose of hurrying the first letting was to permit the painters to do the work in the summer vacation, while the courtrooms were not in use. Painting now will require some inconvenience. The O'Connell company has done a considerable amount of city work, including the retouching of paintings in the Old Courthouse.

DAVIS SAYS U. S. WON'T ALTER DEFENSE POLICY

Tells Legion Kellogg Pact Is "Preliminary Treatment for Age-Old Cancer."

By the Associated Press.
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 10.—A promise that the administration contemplated no weakening of the national defense because of the recently signed Kellogg pact was given today by Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis in an address in which he praised the purpose and the statesmanship of the documents.

"As Secretary of War," he said, "I know the great value of the support which has been given by the American Legion to our national defense. Desirous of peace, you nevertheless have realized that we must not jeopardize our heritage of liberty during our search for a panacea for war. Therefore, you will wish to know that your efforts have not been misdirected. The Government does not intend that there should be any weakening of the national defense as a result of these treaties."

The treaties, Davis described as "a preliminary treatment for an age-old cancer." He pointed out that whereas the ruler was once commander-in-chief of his people, the ruler now is commander-in-chief of the army alone and that people now are enlightened and do not go to war as blindly as they once did.

"In the main, man has striven to live peacefully and peaceably with his neighbors," Davis said. "When commercial and national aims, however, run counter to those of another nation, disagreements naturally have arisen. In bygone days such a situation was followed by a war of extermination—witness Rome and Carthage. Today we exhaust every possible means to adjust differences amicably."

"Self-preservation is the first law of nature; it is the first law of nations. We are removed only 14 years from the greatest war in history. Even though world opinion now may appear to exercise a preponderant influence for peace, we should not rely entirely upon its force, but rather proceed along rational lines toward a practical realization of our aims for peace. The first step has been the renunciation of aggression."

The United States, Davis estimated, now maintains a smaller army per capita than any one of 51 other nations, the average ratio being four fighters a thousand to one a thousand for the United States.

PARACHUTE JUMPER DROWNED
By the Associated Press.
GALVESTON, Tex., Oct. 10.—A parachute jump ended fatally yesterday when Private Joe W. Trammel, 23 years old, Jasper, Tex., attached to the Third Attack Group here, fell into the Gulf of Mexico west of Fort Crockett and drowned. His body was recovered.

Trammel, a mechanic, went up with Lieut. Ivan M. Palmer for the jump. At about 2000 feet he left the plane, apparently miscalculating his distance and dropping into the gulf about 100 yards off shore.

CURTIS INDORSES LA FOLLETTE IN WISCONSIN SPEECH

G. O. P. Vice Presidential Nominee Has Words of Praise for Leaders of Warring Factions.

By the Associated Press.
SUPERIOR, Wis., Oct. 10.—In endorsement of the candidacy of Senator La Follette, Republican Progressive, who has said nothing yet about the Hoover-Curtis national ticket, was given yesterday in a speech by Senator Curtis. Senator Curtis spoke a good word for leaders of both of the warring Wisconsin Republican factions. He called for the election of Walter Kohler, Republican gubernatorial nominee, who belongs to the Conservative wing, which has endorsed Herbert Hoover, and whose faction opposes the La Follette group.

In the next breath he declared for "the election of that brilliant young man who has succeeded his father in the Senate, Robert M. La Follette."

Likewise he rebuked with words of praise the record of Irvine E. Lenroot, former Senator of this State, who is managing the Hoover campaign here.

While Senator La Follette won the Republican senatorial nomination, he has been silent on the Republican national ticket. On Monday his Democratic opponent, M. K. Reilly, withdrew with the statement that Senator La Follette "is just as much in favor of the legislative program for which Gov. Spalth stands as I am."

Meanwhile, State Senator William K. Markham, a member of the Conservative wing and a Hoover supporter, has announced that he will oppose La Follette as an independent.

Senator Curtis did not go into this phase of the contest nor did he mention Senator Blaine, Republican, who has declared against Hoover.

Curtis Contrasts Hoover's and Smith's Views on St. Lawrence.

By the Associated Press.
DULUTH, Minn., Oct. 10.—Positions of Herbert Hoover and Gov. Smith on the controversial St. Lawrence River waterway project, a live issue in the Northwest, were discussed here last night by Senator Curtis.

Curtis declared Hoover's statements showed the Republican nominee was "obviously" in favor of the St. Lawrence River route for a Great Lakes to the sea outlet. He declared Smith's stand to be "very much in doubt."

"Knowing the interest of the people in this section of the country on the St. Lawrence waterway," Curtis said, "I desire to call your attention to what the candidates for President have said, on that subject."

"On Oct. 16, 1920, Gov. Smith sent the following message against the St. Lawrence waterway to the International Joint Commission: 'I would have you know that New York protests with all its might and will oppose the project to the limit of its resources.'"

"Mr. Hoover made the following statement to the same commission on Oct. 20, 1920: 'I have felt the construction of this system (the St. Lawrence canal) would be of very great importance to the existing and to be developed agricultural resources of our entire country.'"

"Gov. Smith has since said: 'I have heretofore expressed a preference for the all-American route, basing my views on engineers' reports made to me. The correctness of these reports and also of those favoring the St. Lawrence route has been challenged. As President of the United States, therefore, it would be my clear duty to study this question impartially upon engineers' reports.'"

"It is obvious from these statements where Mr. Hoover stands on the St. Lawrence project, but it is doubtful what position Mr. Smith takes."

3000 SMITH LEAD REGARDED AS SURE IN EIGHTH DISTRICT

Heavy Democratic Losses in Boone County Are Expected to Be Offset by Cole and Osage Gains.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 10.—The Eighth Congressional District, comprising eight counties in the center of Missouri—Boone, north of the Missouri, and Camden, Cole, Cooper, Miller, Moniteau, Morgan and Osage, south of the river—appears virtually certain to give Smith in the presidential election a majority of at least 1000 more than the 2000 margin by which Senator Reed carried the district in 1922.

Heavy Smith losses in Boone County will be offset, or more than offset, by gains in Cole and Osage. President Coolidge carried the district by only 26 votes, though Harding, four years before, carried it by more than 6000.

Nearly all of the eight counties may be classified as wet, and all except Boone have large Catholic populations. No doubt there will be a big slump in the Democratic vote of Boone County, but heavy Republican losses are equally certain in Cole and Osage, with the other counties, all Republican normally, showing decreased Republican majorities. It is possible that Smith will carry one or two of them by small majorities.

Affect on State Ticket.
The Democratic State ticket may be expected to make a somewhat stronger showing than Smith in the district, though this statement is open to question. The State ticket undoubtedly will be considerably stronger in Boone County, but it will lag behind Smith in all, or nearly all, of the other counties.

While in some districts where the anti-Smith sentiment is not offset, there is likelihood of the defeat of Democratic congressional candidates who usually are not in difficulty; in the Eighth District Congressman Nelson appears certain of re-election, probably by an increased majority. He invariably runs ahead of the remainder of the Democratic ticket, and while his majority may not exceed Smith's, it will not be much less.

The present situation indicates a Smith majority of about 2000 in the district, though changing conditions during the remaining four weeks of the campaign may increase or reduce this figure.

Survey of Counties.
The political history of each county and the condition this year, as nearly as it can be estimated at this time, follow:

Boone—1471 majority for Cox; 1418 majority for Reed; 1310 majority for Davis; 455 majority for Hawes. A Smith majority of about 2000 is expected.
Camden—1242 majority for Harding; 617 majority for Brewster; 526 majority for Coolidge; 456 majority for Williams. A Hoover majority of about 700 is expected.
Cole—1712 majority for Harding; 1415 majority for Reed; 1172 majority for Coolidge; 25 majority for Hawes. A Smith majority of nearly 2000 is expected.
Cooper—1483 majority for Harding; 493 majority for Brewster; 452 majority for Coolidge; 549 majority for Williams. A Hoover majority of approximately 500 is expected.

Miller—1721 majority for Harding; 258 majority for Brewster; 1049 majority for Coolidge; 852 majority for Williams. A Hoover majority of about 800 is expected.
Moniteau—1124 majority for Harding; 33 majority for Reed; 537 majority for Coolidge; 285 majority for Williams. A Hoover majority of about 400 is expected.
Morgan—1073 majority for Harding; 275 majority for Brewster; 647 majority for Coolidge; 444 majority for Williams. A Hoover majority of about 400 is expected.
Osage—2577 majority for Harding; 1057 majority for Reed; 516 majority for Coolidge; 230 majority for Hawes. A Smith majority of from 1000 to 1500 is expected.

Claims Missouri for G. O. P.
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 10.—B.
G. Voorhees, chairman of the Republican State Committee, predicted here yesterday that Hoover will carry Missouri and that he will carry the entire State ticket
with him. Hoover, Voorhees said, would go to St. Louis with an out-
state majority of more than 75-000 and he predicted Smith would not carry St. Louis by more than Senator Reed's majority there in 1922, which was about 45,000.

CIVIL WAR FOLLOWS MASSACRE OF 200,000

Famine, Too, Threatens Lives of People of Kansu Province, China.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 10.—Civil warfare in the western part of Kansu Province is said to be continuing following the massacre of 200,000 persons by fanatical Mohammedans.

In addition to the ravages of civil warfare the area is said, in advice from missions, to be suffering from an intense famine.
The advice said half the population of the province was likely to die next winter.

(The latest estimate of the population of Kansu, compiled by the Chinese Postoffice in 1923, is 5-927,997.)

Serious conflicts between the Kansu Mohammedans and troops of Gen. Feng Yu-Hsiang, who claims the overlordship of the province, caused chaotic conditions. Detailed information was not available in Shanghai, but a letter from the China Inland Mission headquarters at Lanchowfu,
capital of Kansu, dated Aug. 1,
said acute disturbances began last spring. At that time armed Mohammedan bands began raiding villages throughout Central Kan-

su, robbing and killing the inhabitants who were unable to offer effective resistance.
This situation caused Gen. Feng to dispatch an army corps from

Honan Province to Kansu in an attempt to subjugate the Mohammedans. These forces, however,

were defeated and more soldiers were then poured into Kansu. This resulted in civil warfare.

SKINKER HEIRS' INCOME TAX APPEAL DECIDED

Can't Deduct State Levy, but Win Claim on Contingent Refunds.

Post-Dispatch Bureau.
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The Federal Board of Tax Appeals yesterday held that the heirs of Thomas K. Skinker of St. Louis erred when they deducted the Missouri inheritance tax from the estate before computing the Federal tax and were within their rights when they placed a nominal value on contingent claims for refunds from public utilities companies and the city of St. Louis arising from the development of the Ellenwood subdivision.

The heirs appealed to the Tax Board when the Commissioner of Internal Revenue assessed $1299 of additional taxes against the Skinker estate. This amount represented taxes alleged to be due on contingent refunds and on the deduction of $12,452, the amount of the State inheritance tax. By the decision, the heirs will not have to pay tax on the contingent refunds but will have to pay the Federal assessment on the State tax. The exact amount the heirs must pay will be computed later by the Treasury Department.

In contesting the inclusion of the State tax in the estate, the heirs contended that under the laws of Missouri the amount paid was a "claim against the estate," and cited a decision of the Missouri Supreme Court that the Missouri inheritance tax law was incident to the State's power to say what becomes of a person's property when death forecloses his right to control it, and was not incident to the State's taxing power at all. The Tax Board, however, preferred a Federal decision that a claim against an estate must be a claim of a pecuniary nature which could have been enforced against the decedent during his life.

Ellenwood Development.
The decision regarding the contingent refunds disclosed that Skinker paid $3592 to the Laclede Gas Co. for laying gas mains in the Ellenwood subdivision, $2805 to the St. Louis County Gas Co. similar service, $3183 to the West St. Louis Water & Light Co. for laying water mains, and $5000 to the City of St. Louis for like service.

The Laclede Gas Co. agreed to repay him one-thirtieth of this amount for every customer who built on his lots; the County Gas Co. agreed to refund him $17 for every bona fide customer he supplied; the West St. Louis Water & Light Co. was to repay him $10 for each customer and the City of St. Louis $250 for each house connected with the city water mains. These refunds were to cease when the original payments had been met. At the time of his death Skinker had received refunds from some of these sources. As these contingent refunds went with the estate, the Internal Revenue Commissioner assessed them at about 50 per cent, or $3222.

"At the time of the decedent's death, it would have been impossible to determine what value, if any, attached to such claims," the tax board decision said. "We must hold that the commissioner erred in including such claims in the gross estate at a greater value than $1 each, the value placed upon them by the petitioners."

The petitioners were Isabella M. Bertha R. and Charles R. Skinker, Jane N. Matthews, and the Trust Company of St. Louis County, trustee for Caroline F. Rulon and Miller Skinker.

Other St. Louis Decisions.
Three other decisions affecting St. Louisans were made by the board yesterday. The board upheld the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in assessing the F. T. Kuehne Flavoring Extract Co. an additional $2306 for the 1921 income tax. The Kuehne Co. claimed a deduction of $6000 on the ground that their formulas had become "obsolescent in 1921 when the Missouri Federal Prohibition director notified them of the limitations the prohibition unit had placed on others and esters in flavoring extracts. The formulas were modified and sales which had amounted to $87,599 in 1921 dropped to $40,738 in 1922. The board held that the evidence presented was far from convincing that the company had suffered loss by reason of the modified formulas.

The board also upheld the commissioner's assessment of $2716 against Florence H. Schoen, executrix of the estate of Isaac A. Schoen, on the ground that Schoen had not conveyed certain partnership interests to his wife, as claimed and upheld the commissioner in his assessment of additional income taxes for 1920 and 1921 against Edward E. Haverstick. A compromise was reached in the Haverstick case and the amounts finally determined were not noted in the board's decision.

BYRD'S SUPPLY SHIP OFF FOR NEW ZEALAND

Few Witness Departure of Eleanor Bolling From Balboa for the Antarctic.

ON BOARD THE S. S. ELEA-NOR BOLLING, Oct. 10. (By Wireless to New York Times)—Commander Richard E. Byrd's supply ship Eleanor Bolling left Balboa bound for the Society Islands, New Zealand, and the Antarctic at 3 p. m. yesterday after lying in the Pacific side of Panama Canal three days for engine room repairs. She was the fourth ship identified with the Byrd Antarctic expedition to enter the Pacific on the long voyage to Dunedin, N. Z. where the explorers will make their farewell to civilization.
There was no formality to her departure yesterday. To the people ashore our ship was just another tramp passing along the busy shipping lanes to the west. Only 20 persons, all of them friends of members of the crew, were at the pier when she pulled out. But it was a different story when she pushed into the harbor, her broad bow headed to the southwest, and she was greeted by the whistles
of all other ships in sight.

There had been considerable discussion among the seafaring men on the water front as to her ability to penetrate the ice fields which surround the Antarctic continent,
and which she must pass through four times before the supplies vital to the success of the expedition
are placed ashore. Naval officers, maritime shippers and canal pilots had flocked to the ship every day that she was in port.

There had been no announcement as to the time of her departure. A few minutes before 3 o'clock her lines were cast off and she pushed into the stream under her own power. Further down the pier a blast from a whistle aboard
a small black schooner announced to maritime Balboa that just a little ship, scarcely larger than a tug,
was on its way to the Antarctic
ice. It was a salute from one crew of adventure to another, for the schooner, almost lost in the busy shipping of the harbor, was the Chance, a 70-foot sailing vessel manned by eight Yale men who are going around the world, calling at whatever port their fancy takes them.

PITTSBURG SEES NAVY DIRIGIBLE ON HOMEWARD TRIP

Los Angeles Spends Six Hours Over Ohio Before Cruising Onward Into Pennsylvania.

By the Associated Press. PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 10.—The dirigible Los Angeles, homeward bound to Lakehurst, N. J., passed over Pittsburgh at 2:40 o'clock this afternoon. The ship cruised low over the city.

STUEBENVILLE, O., Oct. 10.—The dirigible Los Angeles circled over Steubenville at 1:45 p. m. today before leaving Ohio on its homeward trip to Lakehurst, N. J. The ship spent almost six hours passing over Ohio. It entered the State shortly after 7 a. m. near Bryan, passed over Toledo and Cleveland, and then headed south-east to Steubenville.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—The naval dirigible Los Angeles passed over Chicago at 3:08 a. m. today on the way from Texas to Lakehurst, N. J., according to advices received by the Great Lakes Radio Station.

Commander Exchanges Greetings With Father at Wheeling, Mo. WHEELING, Mo., Oct. 10.—The dirigible Los Angeles paused for a five-minute visit over Wheeling last night while Lieutenant-Commander H. V. Wiley, commanding the ship, exchanged signals with his aged father, J. A. Wiley.

The elder Wiley, in response to advance instructions, was ready to receive his son, whom he has not seen for four years. Nearly the entire population was gathered about the Wiley home, where Mr. Wiley had lighted two red flares to welcome his son.

The cruiser, returning from its long flight to the American Legion convention at San Antonio, halted directly over the flares, and a searchlight played over the assemblage. The commander flashed a torchlight signal to his father, and after a five-minute stop the ship sailed on.

Ten minutes later the dirigible passed near the birthplace at Mendville of Gen. Pershing, who saw the ship at San Antonio Monday.

Thousands of persons witnessed the passage of the dirigible as it sailed through Northern Texas, traversed Oklahoma and cut north-eastward across Kansas during the day on a direct line between Fort Worth and Kansas City.

THIEF SELLS VANDERBILT RING WORTH $40,000 FOR $500
Paris Jeweler Who Bought It Declares He Sold It for $750.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt learned this afternoon from the burglar who broke into her Paris home last July that one of the rings he stole—a platinum ring set with diamonds worth $40,000—was sold by him for less than $500.

The jeweler who bought the ring was brought to Paris police headquarters, where Mrs. Vanderbilt questioned the burglar. He said he resold the ring for $750 to a foreigner whose name he did not know.

This Innovation

Makes itself especially desirable because of its sheer beauty. A perfume bottle of thick crystal with etched stopper, descending to the bottom of the bottle in the form of a nude figure daintily carved. Highly artistic. $12. Gift Dept. 6th floor.

It Is New Art

No other name could be quite as appropriate for these clocks—large display of fancy shapes as well as Gothic, square and oval. Some are elaborately designed. Various colors, $3 to $4.75. 8th floor.

Music While You Powder

A hand-painted porcelain top makes this musical powder box out standing—pastoral design on top, a floral fantasy on the inside. Bronze base and trimming. Beautiful, $25. Perfume Section, Main Floor.

The Caravan Is In!

It has brought no pungent spices, but a gift to gladden the eyes of a king. Rich metallic cloth with iridescent background and large regularly colored floral medallions. Extremely soft. One yard wide. $25 per yard. Silk Dept. Third Floor.

It Is Cover Time

For baby's carriage, a soft crocheted wool robe will give it that dressed-up appearance. A loose thread ruffle effect, fancy stitch edge. White with pink or blue trim. $10.95 and $11.95. Fifth Floor.

Birds Must Fly South

But in order not to be deprived of seeing the plumed songsters for a whole Winter, the picture department procured a rich display of colored bird wood cuts, perched jauntily on branches, mounted on a pongee background. They have no song, but their rich colorings more than make up for that. Metal leaf frames. $16.50 to $21.50. Pictures, 8th floor.

If You Like Nice Things

The mercerized cotton chenille and rayon ultra modernistic rug will interest you. A large assortment of soft shades with strange modernistic designs in contrasting colors. Four sizes. They're really lovely. $10.50 to $14. Rug Department, 8th floor.

There's a Dash In It—

Of the ultra chic—a paisley transparent velvet costume blouse. Flattering colors, constitute this novelty shirred front with tab effect, long sleeves with small pleats forming a cuff. What an addition to any wardrobe. $39.75. Blouse Department, 4th floor.

A Good Catch!

Do you know how important belts are to your costume? This innovation is rubber, covered with metallic fish scales in gold and silver. Two-tone effect, varied assortment. $1.25 to $4.95. Main Floor, Belt Section.

What's In a Name?

In Chateau kid gloves there is fine quality and the assurance that you are beautifully dressed from the wrist down. These are perfect fitting, perspiration proof, with a novel embroidered short cuff in darker color to correspond with embroidered back. They lend an air. Popular Fall shades. $4.95. Glove Section, Main Floor.

A Flat Success

Are these new Fall chokers of real stones—flat oblong shaped beads of lapis make a most becoming neck-piece. Also combinations of carved crystal and chrysoprase, as well as carved crystal and chalcedony. $15 to $30.00. Main Floor, Jewelry Section.

For Your Little Girl

Could you possibly give daughter a finer gift than a dolly that you had dressed yourself? Natural shades of hair hang in small curls around a most lovable face, rosy cheeks and sparkling eyes. The arms and legs are jointed and she is wearing shoes and stockings. Finished model on display will give you many ideas. We offer our light, airy sewing room where you will receive expert aid. Doll form to be covered $3.95. Art Needlework, 6th floor.

Stubborn?

Certainly not—these Mules are most pleasing, gaily colored brocades uniquely decorated with tinted glass flowers, gold trimming, accessories such as these make lounging artistic. $8.50. Shoe Department, 2nd floor.

As You Swing Along the Avenues—

These brisk Fall days, nothing could be smarter with your costumes than a genuine leather envelope bag fastened with a small braided leather knot. Another piece de resistance—leather lined. Two sizes, $10 and $12. Various colors. Leather Goods, Main Floor.

GRAF ZEPPELIN'S U.S. FLIGHT SET FOR TOMORROW

Start of Atlantic Voyage,
However, Is Predicated
Upon Change in Breeze
About Hanger.

GERMAN AIR LINER MAY VISIT ST. LOUIS

Many Cities Anxious to See Huge Dirigible, Which Plans Return Home Late
This Month.

By the Associated Press.
FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Oct. 10.—Dr. Hugo Eckener announced definitely this afternoon that the dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, would not start for the United States today because of unfavorable weather conditions.

The start of the trans-Atlantic flight was set late today for 8 a. m. tomorrow. Even tomorrow's start was predicated upon a change in the breeze blowing around the hanger.

The latest report indicated a depression in the Atlantic was spreading northward as far as Iceland and in a southerly direction as far as the Azores. Thus the depression blanketed completely the area through which the dirigible would have to pass.

The definite decision not to take off found the ship all ready for the start. The mails for America had been closed with a cargo of 50,000 letters, cards and parcels aboard. The baggage of the passengers, limited to 55 pounds each, also had been put aboard.

Several changes and additions to the passenger list were announced. Dr. Kruger of the ministry of transportation will take the place of Prof. Ludwig Kaas, of the German Centrist party. Three additional passengers were listed, Herr von Tyszkas, a representative of the Zeppelin's underwriters, Herr Berk, representing the Trans Radio Co., and Herr Schirmitz, representing the Zeiss Company, manufacturers of optical and navigation instruments.

By COMMODORE DR. HUGO ECKENER
(Commander of the Graf Zeppelin.)
(Copyright, 1928.)
FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Oct. 10.—The Graf Zeppelin is all clear for its departure.

The officer in charge of loading the ship is distributing the small amount of baggage of the crew according to definite instructions, and the passengers are waiting at their hotels for announcement of our impending departure.

In the meantime, I myself sit before a number of the last daily weather charts, following on paper the course of the depression over the Atlantic, and let the entire situation in which we find ourselves pass in review before me.

To Start as Soon as Possible.
We must start as soon as possible. That is absolutely necessary in the interest of the airship, not the Graf Zeppelin, but airships in general.

We are not in the position of pilots of airplanes that can wait for days, under unfavorable circumstances even weeks, until especially favorable weather on the Atlantic appears. They could do that for the entire world knew they planned a daring sport or record-breaking achievement, and that the airplane as a regular means of transportation over the ocean has not yet come into consideration.

For Trans-Atlantic Traffic.
But the airship lays claim already to being now an appropriate aircraft for trans-Atlantic traffic. It may not wait for particularly favorable weather.

Isn't that so?
I observe and study the course of the isobars (lines of equal barometric pressure) on the charts lying before me, and silently shake my head. For four or five days a strong storm area has lain between Ireland and Newfoundland.

The effects of this storm area would clear down south of the Azores. It would bring us strong, steady and contrary winds were we to lay our course south of the center of that depression. We may therefore reckon with an average head wind of 25 to 40 miles, an hour over a distance of not less than 1500 miles, which would reduce the speed of the airship from 70 miles an hour to only 30 or 35.

That would mean that we would require from 40 to 50 hours for what is scarcely one-half of the distance, were we now to start and go over the southerly route over the Azores. Aside from that, we would certainly meet with dusty weather and thunder storms in the southwesterly sector of this area of depression.

Does Not Favor Northern Route.
And how about the route northerly of the center of this barometric depression? This depression extends so far north that it would probably be necessary to go as far as Iceland to get around it. In

ANGLO-FRENCH NAVAL PACT NOW MAJOR BRITISH ISSUE

Foreign Office Under Heavy Fire Because of Actions—Baldwin Cabinet Weakened by Expose.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Oct. 10.—It is understood that the Cabinet today decided to publish full details of the discussions leading to the Anglo-French naval compromise proposals with relevant documents and the replies from the Powers consulted as soon as certain outstanding formalities are completed.

All the principal ministers assembled at 10 Downing street to go over the communications from the United States, Japan and Italy.

With both the United States and Italy opposed to the agreement, and with Japan favoring it only "in principle," it was generally admitted that the agreement was dead.

It was stated that other steps will have to be taken to solve the disarmament problem which confronted the nations after the breakdown of the three-Power naval conference in Geneva.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON,
London Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
(Copyright, 1928.)
LONDON, Oct. 10.—Now that the facts about the Anglo-French naval pact are known here, the subject is becoming the major political issue, dominating all others.

It has probably been generations since the British Foreign Office has done anything that has met with such a chorus of obprobrium and such almost unanimous condemnation.

While the Labor and Liberal press gloats over or denounces the pact, the Tory press either maintains a silent silence or joins less violently in criticism of what Aristide Briand hinted in his note to Foreign Minister Austen Chamberlain, that the pact must become a new intent whether or not the technical naval compromise proved generally acceptable.

Calls Situation a Tragedy.
The Liberal Manchester "Guan-
t"ian treats the situation as a tragedy, declaring: "This naval agreement made mockery of disarmament, which it was ostensibly designed to promote. It involves a conception of a foreign policy that leads inexorably to war. If this represents the settled policy of the British Government, if we are to that agreeable, or advisable at this time of the year?"

I cannot become friendly with this thought. Presumably we would meet with snow and hail,
not to say that we would have to travel most of the time in complete darkness.

I cannot decide myself as to the inadvisability of taking the Northern route in the winter months, except perhaps in the time of the full moon. In these months, therefore, generally speaking, it seems preferable to go by the southerly route.

But the weather situation which has prevailed in the last five days
will force our going very far South,
perhaps even to the thirty-fifth degree north latitude. On such a route it would not be necessary to reckon with such strong head winds, but the distance would be very much greater. It would make the distance from Friedrichshafen
to New York perhaps 6000 miles,
and that would mean a trip of 75
to 80 hours, since even on this very southerly course contrary winds would have to be met and overcome.

Not in Quest of Speed Record.
Let us hope that in the next 24 hours, there will be a more favorable meteorological condition. It will be seen from what I have said that speed records should not be expected from the impending first trans-Atlantic flight of the Graf Zeppelin. For this time of the year, it would be a piece of extraordinary luck if we covered the distance from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst in 65 to 70 hours, and it should not be forgotten that Friedrichshafen lies eight hours
from the Atlantic Coast.

It should be admitted frankly that the Graf Zeppelin has not the speed that an airship for the regular trans-Atlantic traffic should have. The limited size of the hanger in Friedrichshafen decided the size and form of the Graf Zeppelin. The decisive thing in this flight is not the speed, but the fact that it is a practical transportation flight across the Atlantic.

Graf Zeppelin Will Visit St. Louis
If Possible.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The German dirigible Graf Zeppelin will visit as many as possible of the hundreds of cities in virtually every section of the country that have requested a visit. The German railroads information office announced last night.

The announcement said it was thought possible to extend the cruise of the airship over territory including Boston, Akron, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville, Washington and Philadelphia,
starting and ending at Lakehurst.

Allen said that a large number of inquiries regarding passage on the Zeppelin on its return trip to Germany had been received and as many as possible of these requests will be complied with.

understand that for the future it intends to pin its faith to "discredited system of exclusive alliance, friendly understandings and gentlemen's agreements between separate states at whatever cost to the principles of the League, ther
the world is confronted with one of the most dangerous developments since "armistice."

The chief Liberal organ in London, the Daily News, says: "If we were threatened with war, the Cabinet, we presume, would be sitting all day long. The present situation, in our opinion, is in some ways as much of a menace to civilization as the life and death issue of war itself."

Italian opinion, like American opinion, is convinced that the real objective of the compromise is to establish joint supremacy of France and England on sea and land.

The French press jauntily adopts the view that Great Britain has committed herself to a secret entente with France.

Failure of French Diplomacy.
The expulsion of an American correspondent from Paris for publishing a French official document about the pact is interpreted in London as a gesture to placate official England. If so, it has signally failed in its object. Most of the difficulties in which the Foreign Office here finds itself are due to the failure of French diplomacy to keep secret diplomacy secret.

When a powerful French newspaper, the Echo de Paris, published the actual text of most of the exchanges between Briand and Chamberlain, British fury, it is understood, burst its banks and the French Ambassador here received a communication couched in such strong terms that Briand was jolted.

The opinion is freely expressed here that this political scandal would undoubtedly bring down the Conservative Government as soon as Parliament meets, were it not that Labor is the only alternative Cabinet. As it is, the prestige of Premier Baldwin's Government has been so weakened that effects in the coming by-elections are expected to be sensational.

TACNA-ARICA BOUNDARY COMMISSION STEPS ASIDE

that Chile and Peru, which recently

four months of the Tacna-Arica boundary commission at the suggestion of Secretary Kellogg.

ing to the settlement of the long-standing

The department in its announcement speaks of the "hopeful prospect" that Chile and Peru may settle this long-standing dispute, adding that a settlement "will make an unnecessary further work of the boundary commission."

HOOVER URGES HARD FIGHT FOR NEW YORK STATE

Puts Responsibility on Leaders There, Who Are Told to Work Till Last Ballot Is Cast.

'LOOKS VERY GOOD,' MACHOLD REPORTS

G. O. P. Chairman Expresses Confidence Ottinger Will Beat Roosevelt for Governor.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—After a thorough canvass of the New York situation, Herbert Hoover today told Charles D. Hilles, National Committee chairman, and H. Edmund Machold State chairman, that the responsibility for swinging the electoral votes of that State to the Republican national and State
tickets rested with the State organization.

"He told us to go back and work right up until the last ballot has been placed in the box," Machold
said. "The situation in New York States looks very good, indeed. We expect to poll a total vote of 3,800,000, or 500,000 more than was polled in 1924. The registration in the city is going on this week and the result thus far shows
a very large increase."

Asked if the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt, as the Democratic candidate for Governor, would aid the Democratic national ticket in New York State, Machold said he did not think it would. He added that he did not think it would affect the result in New York at all.

"I am sure that Albert J. Ottinger,
the Republican gubernatorial candidate, will poll the strength of his ticket, which means that as Hoover carries the State, Ottinger will also," Machold said. "I base
my prediction on the fact that Ottinger as District Attorney has carried on a fight in New York that appeals to the class of people who heretofore have voted for Gov.
Smith."

Before calling on the Republican presidential candidate, Hilles and Machold conferred with Dr. Hubert Work, chairman of the Republican National Committee. They said final plans for Hoover's visit to New York City Oct. 22 have not been completed.

Hope in Tariff Issue.
Hoover also conferred today with Ogden Mills, undersecretary of the Treasury, and A. M. Liebler of Chicago, publisher of the Jewish Daily Press. Mills asserted that Gov. Smith had been forced into a corner on the tariff issue.

"We were extremely pleased when Chairman Raskob dared the fighting a few days ago with a statement about the idea of the Democratic nominee on the tariff,"
said the Treasury undersecretary.
"His statement proved that Gov.
Smith has been forced into a corner on this issue."

"Republican speakers and campaign directors have hammered
and hammered at it until the entire country knows how careful the Democrats have been not to disclose their true views on the tariff.
They know that once the country gets the correct perspective on this competitive tariff plan and its perils for American industry, their hopes will be destroyed in every industrial state."

Liebler asserted that Hoover would have general support from the Jewish people of the nation as a mark of appreciation for the aid

VAN SWERINGENS BUY CONTROL OF SIXTH RAILROAD

Brothers Acquire 67 Per Cent of Stock of Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, a Coal-Carrying Line.

QUICK REACTION ON THE MARKET

Trading Becomes Active,
Although Deal Is Not Made Public Until Close of Exchange.

By Leased Wire from the New York
Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Mantis
J. and Orvis P. Van Sweringen, Cleveland railroad and real estate
magnates, acquired their sixth railroad yesterday when they purchased for approximately $9,550,- 000 about 67 per cent of the total stock of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg Railway.

At the same time the brothers
offered to purchase from the minority stockholders at par the remaining 950 shares if the stock certificates are deposited by 2 o'clock the afternoon of Dec. 10
with A. Iselin & Co. This purchase will cost an additional $6,950,000.

The stock was bought at private sale from the Iselin-Roosevelt families, and although the transaction was kept secret and not announced formally until 6 o'clock last night by L. C. Probert, vice president of the Erie, one of the Van Sweringens' lines, Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg became suddenly active late in the afternoon.

Two thousand four hundred and seventy common shares changed hands on the New York Stock Exchange, closing at 98, a rise of 17 points, while a single 10-share transaction of the preferred
brought about a rise of 2 1/2 points when the day's trading ended. The final figure on the preferred was 100 1/2. The common pays 4 per cent and the preferred 6.

The road is shaped like a huge Y with approximately 600 miles of trackage, with its southern terminus at Pittsburg and the prongs of the Y reaching to Buffalo and Lake Erie on the west and Rochester and Lake Ontario on the east.

The road, the rail men say, is one of the most important coal carriers between the northern mines and Canada and last year handled 11,500,000 tons of freight,
of which about eight-elevenths were mine products. Its car ferry from Charlotte, N. Y., to Coburg, Ont., is regarded as one of the most important "feeder" outlets between the United States and Canada.

The road, under the Big Four consolidation plan for Eastern lines, was assigned, it is said, to the New York Central by mutual agreement. The Central wants the northern part of the line, while the Baltimore & Ohio could use the southern part to form a new short freight route from New York to Chicago. Its position, railroad

WORK ASSAILS SMITH'S TARIFF IDEAS AS VAGUE

Answers Raskob's Pronouncement for 'Protection' With Invitation to Rejoin G. O. P.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Chairman Work of the Republican National Committee in answering the tariff letter sent last Saturday by Chairman Raskob of the Democratic National Committee, told Raskob that he would be glad to welcome him back to the Republican party after the next election.
Raskob in his letter to Work had stated that "Gov. Smith compre-hends, as clearly as I comprehend it, that we must have tariff
protection."

"Your program," Work wrote,
"seems so vague that no one would know what to expect after the election and until the assembling of Congress. . . . The most we could expect after that period of uncertainty would presumably resemble the Underwood tariff law of which Gov. Smith speaks so highly, and which would doubtless produce the same widespread depression
and unemployment which followed the enactment of that last Democratic tariff law."

Work reviewed what he said
were the results of the Democratic tariff changes in past years, declaring that after the enactment

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—From a rustic pulpit high on the slopes of Mount St. Albans, President Coolidge today greeted the delegates to the forty-ninth triennial convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church, telling them that the "confidence in each other necessary to support our social and economic relations and finally the fabric of our Government itself, all rest on religion."

Two thousand clerical and lay delegates and a congregation of 20,000 attended the formal opening services held in an outdoor amphitheater on the grounds of the National Cathedral. They heard also the Right Rev. Charles Palmerston Anderson, Bishop of Chicago, warn against "the intrusion of politics in the pulpit and on the platforms of the church."

Preceding the ceremony, the clergymen walked slowly to their places across the grounds from the Peace Cross near the gates of the cathedral close, while the gathering sang the processional hymn,
"Holy, Holy, Holy," and "Onward, Christian Soldiers," led by a vested band and choir of 250 voices.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

St. Louis Beautiful.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:
AFTER viewing the City Plan Commission's proposed improvements, I find myself looking forward a few years imagining a stranger's impression upon coming to the Mississippi River from the East.

He would find himself confronted with a dazzling display of unique buildings in front of which lay a plaza of such beauty and dimensions as to make him gasp. Coming to the plaza proper he would marvel at the ideal parking grounds where 5000 cars can be accommodated and the ease and smoothness with which traffic is handled. Walking west, he would find the Old Courthouse from whose steps slaves were sold many years ago, and finds that it is now a museum where local artists exhibit their work. The artistic taste of the people is further expressed by the statues and fountains along the river front and the small parks where one might rest awhile beneath a shady tree. Reluctantly he leaves this beautiful spot and walks further west only to come upon a civic center where the Municipal Auditorium, New Court-house, Public Library and other buildings are laid out in an imposing array. Truly an artistic triumph and with the romanticism and tradition attached to the Father of Waters which borders the city, there can be no doubt that of all the beautiful places to live St. Louis will be the first considered.

And for the casual and interested citizen who cares to indulge in such romanticism, he will find just such a story unfolded to him at the St. Louis Art League headquarters, 325 Locust street, where the City Plan Commission have their proposed improvements and plans on view.

A Total Loss.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:

PLEASE, I beg of you, never have Graham McNamee broadcast any more baseball games. His sarcasm directed at St. Louis, the players, the poor broadcasting, his many mistakes tellingly told him, in my opinion, it was enough to lose, but to listen to the continued gloating of Dr. Carlin and McNamee made my Sunday afternoon a total loss.

For a Lower Fare.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:

A 10-CENT fare, a reduction of wages—which are already very limited, when compared with present high cost of living—is the dream of the P. & C. Should this happen, then many carriers will be compelled to desert this means of transportation and turn to livery and this will hasten the passing of electric cars altogether. Here is a good suggestion for a remedy to all the trouble: A 5-cent fare, a reasonable increase in wages to carmen, sale of weekly passes and, if as by magic, the automobile congestion will be greatly diminished. Transit will be more rapid, the number of car patrons will be doubled, people will have a real service and the P. & C. will reap a larger profit. Why not try it?

A Plagiarism.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:

THE letter published in your issue of Oct. 7 over the signature of H. S. Bauer would have looked better in quotation marks, for it was taken word for word from a longer article by Anne Hard in the October number of the Ladies' Home Journal. A. M. JACKS.

McNamee's Errors.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST-DISPATCH:

INASMUCH as I am an ardent baseball fan and a St. Louis booster, I wonder if something can be done in the next world series, which incidentally will be played in St. Louis, to improve the type of radio announcer.

Graham McNamee may have a beautiful voice, he may have the winning personality, but he hasn't the virtue of patience or calmness under fire.

The Cards and Yankees have made a number of errors in this series, but that number is far overshadowed by the number made by the above-mentioned announcer. I believe if his errors were laid end to end they would make a line long line.

In Sunday's game at various times he had fingers itching, he forgot the score and, worse of course, he didn't know half of the Red Birds' names. And another thing, he continues to broadcast, tell him to "cut out" that laugh which irritates the serene calm of St. Louis fans. If he can't give the same credit to the sparkling plays made by the Red Birds as he does to the Yankees, let him speak up now or forever hold his peace.

SMITH AND LINCOLN.

Abraham Lincoln opposed slavery. When he became a candidate for President the cry was raised by his opponents that even if he were elected he could not emancipate the slaves. It was pointed out that only Congress could do this. Congress was for slavery. Had not Congress passed the fugitive-slave act? Or if Congress did attempt to free the slaves, would not the United States Supreme Court stop any such act? Had it not rendered the Dred Scott decision, which Abraham Lincoln said could not be the law, since only the will of the people is in the end the law?

Yet when Lincoln was elected the South knew slavery was doomed. It knew the whip hand had passed to the abolitionists. It was not long after he was inaugurated that the secession movement set in. The slave Congress and the slave Supreme Court were still there, but the South knew its power was gone. It knew practical politics too well to believe that Lincoln would not have a mandate from the people to abolish slavery.

Gov. Smith is against Federal prohibition. Now that he has become a candidate for President his opponents say that he cannot do away with prohibition if he is elected. They point out that Congress is dry, and even if it were not the United States Supreme Court is dry. Did it not, only this week, refuse to reopen the celebrated wire-tapping case, in which the fourth amendment to the Constitution was set aside in order that prohibition officers might trap a bootlegger? Has it not upheld in every instance the coast patrol, which goes far beyond the 12-mile limit to seize ships running rum? What, then, is the use of electing Gov. Smith on the issue of prohibition?

It is a parallel without precedent in the history of the American republic. Gov. Smith knows that he cannot do anything about prohibition in the sense implied by his opponents. So did Abraham Lincoln know that he could not do anything about slavery in the sense implied by his opponents. However, what Lincoln knew was that his election would break the morale of the South and put over Congress a new master. That is what Gov. Smith knows. His election will transfer power from the Anti-Saloon League to the people and Congress is just as obsequious under one whip as the other. So is the United States Supreme Court. If it were not so, neither would have consented to a law which cannot be made effective without abrogating the Constitution.

It was so in Lincoln's time and it is so now.

Taking a pay cut of 5 per cent five weeks before the election will not make the textile workers of New Bedford enthusiastic about Republican prosperity.

CAN THE ENGLISH LIBERALS COME BACK?

The English Liberal party, whose roster contains some of the famous names in history, is making effort to come back. In advance of the forthcoming general elections, it plans a campaign by which a call would be made at every home in England, Scotland and Wales. It hopes by this means to bring the Liberal party in direct touch with every man and woman over 21. Particularly will the Liberal party seek to reach and influence the millions of young women voters between 21 and 30 who recently were enfranchised. This is an impressive piece of organization work and it will be interesting to see what it accomplishes at the elections.

It is the general impression in America, however, that the Liberal party has nothing to offer to the voter. If the voter is a Tory, the Conservative party best represents his aims and is, furthermore, in position to achieve them. If the voter is a Liberal, he finds the Labor party best equipped to promote liberal ideas. All the Liberal party can hope to do, being less Tory than the Conservatives and less radical than the Laborites, is to offer a rather colorless middle ground.

Certainly it was not by accident that the Liberal party collapsed during the war period. It must have done so because it had lost its usefulness. The great problems that confronted England after the armistice were mainly economic and they compelled a sharper division among the English people than had existed before. That division still exists, and the best the Liberal party can hope for seemingly is to hold a balance of power in the House of Commons. The Labor party definitely has taken its place as a major political party.

HOW THE NICARAGUA ELECTION IS GOING.

Nothing could be duller than the presidential campaign in Nicaragua which is now theoretically at its height, and the reason is not far to seek. Under a decree issued by President Diaz, clothed of course with autocratic power not only to supervise the election, but to choose the candidates and the issues. The first paragraph of the decree reads as follows:

The National Board of Elections, Dr. Ramon Castillo and Dr. Enoc Aguado as political members, is vested with full and general authority to supervise the election and to prescribe, with obligatory force, all measures necessary for the registration of voters, for the casting and counting of ballots and all other matters pertaining to the election.

While there are two Nicaraguans on the board, Gen. McCoy is the real boss and what he says goes. An example of his dictatorial power was evidenced in the selection of candidates. Moncada, a so-called Liberal but in reality a renegade from the cause of his party, was accepted by McCoy as the Liberal party's candidate. In the Conservative party a rift arose between the Chamorro faction, which favored one Rappacoli, and the Diaz crowd, which supported Dr. Paeos. McCoy refused to recognize either candidate and arranged for the nomination of a compromise candidate, namely, Adolfo Benard.

Everyone in Nicaragua knows that both these candidates stand for exactly the same thing—namely, American intervention in Nicaraguan affairs. A third party, composed of Liberals who are opposed to intervention, was formed and selected a candidate, but Gen. McCoy refused to let him run. As matters stand, therefore, Nicaraguans have a choice between twaddledum and twaddledoo, or between Moncada, who sold out to the United States, and Benard, who will carry out, if elected, the craven policies of the incumbent. In all this choosing and rejecting of candidates, Gen. McCoy has played the role of dictator.

the phrase "supervising elections" means nothing more or less than political control of the country. With this gag upon free action being employed, it looks as though our Marines are in Nicaragua for an indefinite stay, or until the Nicaraguan citizenry is definitely cowed into submission.

Then Babe took the ball and ran home.

MR. HOOVER AND MUSCLE SHOALS.

It would have been easy for Mr. Hoover to have said in his Elizabethan speech that he favors Federal retention of Muscle Shoals and making available to the people both its power and its by-products. He need not have used such cryptic words as those which followed his declaration that he does not "favor any general extension of the Federal Government into the operation of business in competition with its citizens," when he said:

There are local instances where the Government must enter the business field as a by-product of some great major purpose, such as improvement in navigation, flood control, scientific research or national defense; but they do not vitiate the general policy to which we should adhere.

After returning to Washington and conferring with members of his board of strategy, Mr. Hoover discovers that "this means Muscle Shoals." He adds:

There is no question of Government ownership about Muscle Shoals as the Government already owns both the power and the nitrate plants. The major purposes which were advanced for its construction were navigation, scientific research and national defense. The Republican administration has recommended that it be dedicated to agriculture for research purposes and development of fertilizers in addition to its national defense reserve. After the purposes are satisfied there is a by-product of superfluous power. That by-product should be disposed on such terms and conditions as will safeguard and protect all public interest.

I entirely agree with these proposals.

Apparently it was the hope of carrying Tennessee, in which he found himself going badly, that smoked him out on this issue. Nor is his policy that of the Republican administration. Mr. Coolidge let the Muscle Shoals bill passed by the last Congress die by way of the pocket veto. He was opposed to Federal operation of Muscle Shoals and thought it should be sold to the highest bidder.

"Mr. Hoover now agrees with Gov. Smith," says a Washington dispatch. Indeed, there is no difference at bottom between the position of either man and the Muscle Shoals bill. They all agree that the Government should retain and operate the plant. The only possible disagreement relates to distribution of its benefits. It is a great victory for Senator Norris. He first whipped Congress into this position, then bagged the Democratic candidate for President, and now bags Mr. Hoover.

Let us hope that Mr. Hoover meets often with his board of strategy. It may advise candor upon other scores.

Our notion of hard work is to wonder what football could do to renew our interest in it.

THE CARDINALS.

Because they lost four straight games to the devastating Yankees is no sign that the Cardinals are not a great baseball team or that popular confidence in them is any less than it was. We must recall that the Yankees and the Cardinals have each beaten the other in a world series, and there is a rubber to play. The defeat of the Cardinals was a surprise. For some strange reason which no baseball man understands, they lost their dresded punch when they won the National League pennant. They had good pitching, and their fielding was at times sensational. Up to the break in the last game their support of Sherdel was beyond anything ever seen in a local park during a year series.

But, as Wilbert Robinson said, any team in the National League could have beaten the Cardinals with the great bats of Bottomley, Hafey, Harper and Frisch impotent. "The Cardinals have a world of power," said McGraw in his prediction that they were the team the Giants would have to beat for the pennant. That power singularly passed from them in the world series. The pitching against them was not so good but the weak hitters on the team could lift it. It was the heavy hitters who failed. Harper, who hit three home runs in a single critical game with the Giants late in the season, batted .111 in the world series. Hafey batted .200, Bottomley .214, Frisch .231. That was what was the matter with the Cardinals. Two years ago they outlived the Yankees. Wait for the rubber.

Mr. Hoover said in Tennessee he was for prohibition to protect the American home. He should have said home brew.

ADEQUATE COUNTY GOVERNMENT.

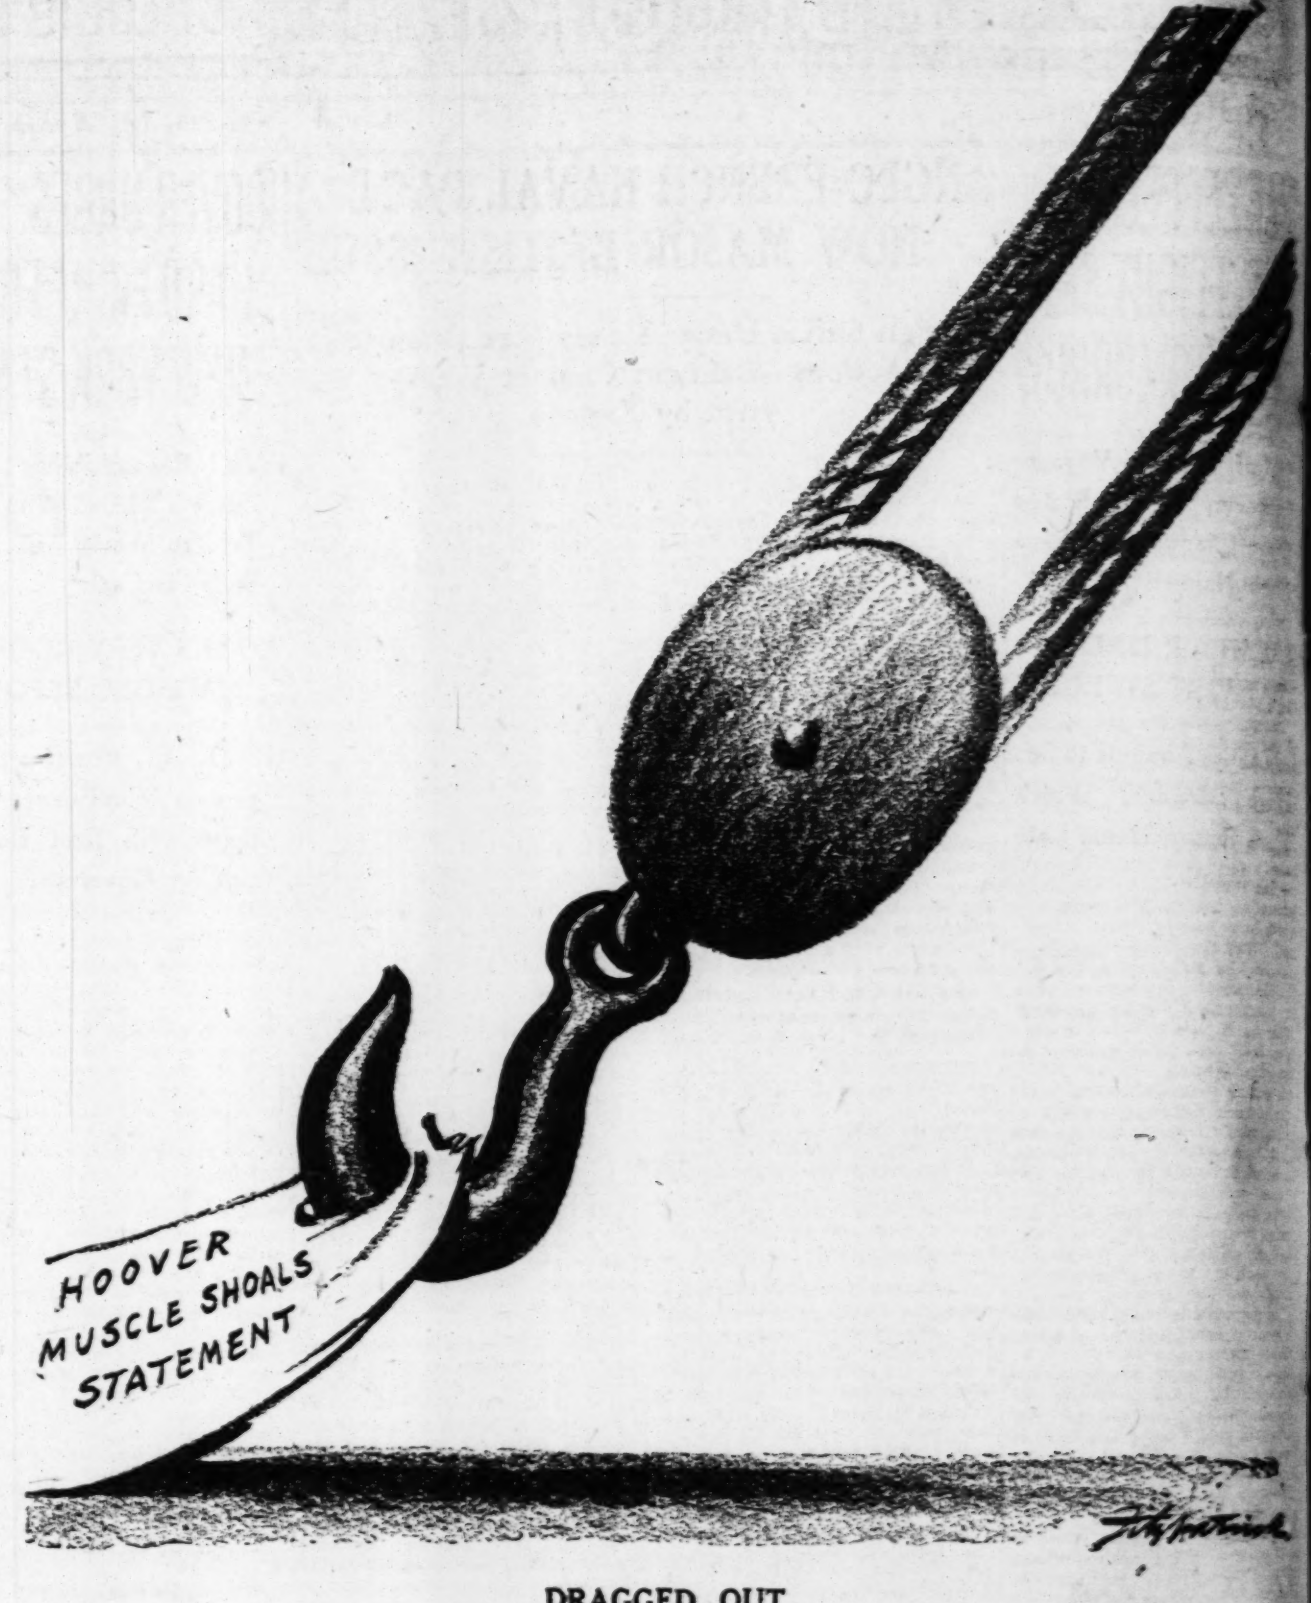

The greatest moral pointed by the new registration figures for St. Louis County, showing the record-breaking number of $2,261 voters there, is the need for reorganization of the government of that teeming suburban area along modern lines.

It is ridiculous that this community, now almost entirely a residential and industrial adjunct of the city, should be divided into independent districts of various sorts, each having various capabilities of government and separate jurisdiction. There are 15 incorporated suburbs, containing more than half of the estimated present population of 200,000; 93 different school districts; five townships, each with its objectionable fee system of Constables and Justices of the Peace. The unincorporated area, much of which is heavily populated, is altogether lacking in adequate provisions for public improvements, fire and police protection and numerous other important things.

University City has grown within a generation from an infant subdivision to the fifth city of Missouri, passing the world capital of the lead and zinc industry, Joplin. Other suburbs, too, have grown. The resultant confusion is appalling to the student of political economy.

Months ago the Chambers of Commerce of the city and county were called on to take active steps toward a solution of the problem. They have gotten nowhere. It is time for the whole subject of merger with the city or of adequate metropolitan area government for the county to be revived. The need is urgent.

Now that Mr. Hoover has denounced Sinclair Lewis

GRAF ZEPPELIN

Milwaukee Journal thinks we shall have to develop a race of superior airmen before dirigibles are put in common use; New York Herald-Tribune mentions Graf Zeppelin's one departure from previous designs; Courier-Journal refers to the ship as a floating palace; Washington Post looks upon it as a challenge to the airplane.

THE GRAF ZEPPELIN.

From the Milwaukee Journal.

ALL Europe marvels at the performance of the new German airship, Graf Zeppelin. America is interested, too, with her official observer, Commander Rosendahl of the Los Angeles, on board the big liner in her last flights. Opinion holds that the completion and navigation of this ship is distinctly the aeronautical event of the year.

Trials flights have demonstrated once again certain points of superiority of the airship over the airplane. Commander Eckenker was able to wander at will over Germany, the North Sea, even the coast of England, without thought of fuel supply. When he was notified of the approaching storm he simply skirted around it. When a motor stopped, the ship went on her way with slightly reduced power until the motor was repaired. The 1600 miles of journey gives one the impression of man at home in the air instead of just there temporarily at the mercy of a motor's power.

On the other hand, the airship has its disadvantages, too. It is more difficult to handle, with problems of navigation that overtop those of any other machine made for navigation. These are so intricate that scarcely a dozen men in the world are capable of handling an airship. America has had only two, Commander Lansdowne, lost with the Shenandoah, and Commander Rosendahl. The Graf Zeppelin was trained in Europe and he in turn trained the present commander of the Los Angeles. We will have to develop a race of superior airmen before the rigid liner of the skies is put into common use.

So many have been the mishaps with airships that many people have lost faith in them. The Graf Zeppelin is the first of a number of ships planned as an answer. It avowed determination to show that the airship is safe. The real test will come when the great voyager makes her trip to the United States, perhaps to continue around the world. If the Graf Zeppelin is as successful as is promised, the day of the air liner is much nearer.

ZEPPELINS OR AIRPLANES?

From the New York Herald Tribune.

ARGUMENT is rife between experts as to whether air commerce will be carried by giant airships or will ride in lighter-than-air ships of the Zeppelin type. Theories settle nothing. The only test is experience—experience which lasts longer and includes more kinds of weather and landings and air misfortunes than is possible in a few trial flights. It is apparent that the air argues of future commerce must carry greater loads than any form of aircraft carries now. Useful lift can be increased either by larger German ship, the Graf Zeppelin, either across the ocean or elsewhere, will yield valuable data on costs, utilities and safety, just as regular air mail service by airplane has yielded similar facts.

The Graf Zeppelin includes only one radical departure from previous designs. This is its ability to replace liquid fuel by a the lift of the ship this gas contributes nothing; on the other hand, it does not absorb lift as gasoline does, for the blue gas is of nearly the same weight, volume for volume, as is air. Chemically it might be called a gasified gasoline, for it consists of gaseous hydrocarbon compounds, not unlike the liquid hydrocarbons which compose ordinary gasoline, and which are turned into a gaseous mixture with air by the carburetor of an automobile engine. About the utility of this idea of gaseous fuel experts differ, just as they do about the practical value of airships. Once more, only experience will settle the arguments.

The chief practical consideration as between airplane and airship is the cost of transportation, year in, year out, of one ton of freight or passengers a mile of flight, or an hour of time. Comparative safety, too, needs such accumulated statistics for its determination.

THE GREATEST ZEPPELIN.

From the Washington Post.

THE tests of the Graf Zeppelin have been watched with interest by the aeronautical world. She constitutes the latest challenge to the airplane as a long distance carrier. There is little doubt that Dr. Eckenker's ship, successor to a long line of similar craft, will complete the voyage to the United States speedily and safely. Her passengers, if all goes well, will ride in comfort comparable to that of an ocean liner, with room to walk about. Plate glass windows afford a view of the sea panorama. So far as creature comfort is concerned, no comparison between the airplane and the dirigible is possible.

Much pioneering is yet to be done, however, before the Zeppelin will become an actual competitor of the steamship. The Graf Zeppelin, depending upon how it performs in trans-Atlantic travel, may be the pioneer of ocean airships. Its voyage will be watched with the greatest interest, not only by those directly interested in the development of commercial aviation, but by the public of both hemispheres.

THE FIRST AERIAL LINER.

From the Courier-Journal.

NOTHING in the history of aeronautics has been more ambitious than the proposed flight of the giant dirigible "Count Zeppelin," which sometime this week will leave Friedrichshafen, Germany, for Lakehurst, N. J. The enormous size of the craft, equal to that of an ocean liner, the number of its crew and passengers, the luxuriousness of its lounging rooms and cabins mark it as an important step in the conquest of the air. It is a veritable floating palace designed to solve the problem of trans-Atlantic travel above the lanes of slower moving ships.

The intended journey, however, is not without precedent. A sister ship of this super Zeppelin made the passage a few years ago. The flight of the ZEP-3, now named the Los Angeles and the pride of the American Navy, was without incident. There was little show about it. It was in the nature of a business affair. The Zeppelin plant had constructed a dirigible for the United States and was delivering it

OBSERVATION ON FORTY-DOLLAR SEATS.

While youth is an age too prone to exaggerate the value of things, it is not blighting. So little they harm, their fight is a charm—the practice, I think, is not blighting. With blood in their eye, they say they are, but few are the blows that are landing. They struggle and strain, but little the gas that either of them must be sucking. The puffing, small pair may make the hair, their shoes may be subject to scuffing. Yet watching a fight—a joy and delight—I think that such fighting is blighting. 'Tis only a bluff, this scrambling as rough the art of the boxer forking. Yet I must admit while watching them in their present day clamping in the ring.

Time was, I recall, when fighting was all, and great was the might of their boxing. But now, just as coy as any small boy, they revert to the day John L. would disappear giving or taking a beating. Scan science, less art, a stout fighting heart—and banish all blows as to smiting. Retreating from clares of powder-puff or doing some cautious, slow trading. I never a treat—the price of a seat and counsel such tactics evading.

If fighting is dead—and such has been the outlook promoters claiming. The fault's at the door of duffers and not with promise not worth the discipline.

We sometimes think, in our financial way, that according to the law of diminishing returns or something like that, a point eventually will be reached when an increase in the tariff would not be of benefit to anybody.

"Children are literal-minded," and the Willie's statement that his hands are never was intended to include his wife and his elders continue to suppose.

Somehow or other, we have noticed, in that even binding the volume in new leather seems to have no appreciable effect on the quality of the poetry.

FABLE.

Once upon a time, a perfectly logical speech, delivered almost any place, was not considered "an invasion of your privacy."

We presume, too, that when a street car is taken in Philadelphia, the usual arrangements are made to enable the faithful to vote at least twice.

At a venture, we wager that another who is fond of recalling how much things were in the old days is the king of Italy.

Absence makes them gossip longer.

We think, too, that the radio would have been just as popular, all things considered, without some of the less popular songs.

One advantage, if you care to call it, of present day literature is that you can all those words which in a more remote day were indicated by a dash.

Puritans Were Folks

THE NOT-QUITE PURITANS. By Henry W. Lawrence. (Little Brown.)

CONSIDERING all that has been written about the excessive puritanism of the Puritans, it was inevitable that someone should write a book proving that the Puritans were not so puritanical after all—and here it is.

Of course, we should have known as much all along; but even if it were not true that piety and human nature are never happily wedded in any society, some book of the sort would have been written just the same, since the guiding principle of the Donnybrook Fair seems to inspire most of our intellectuals: "If you see a head, for the love of God hit it!"

Mr. Lawrence, who is professor of history at Connecticut College, has found a head to hit, and the result is no mere technical kayo. It is a slaughter and a dragout.

Did the young Puritan nudes go in for pretty clothes and ungodly fashions? They did. Were their vicious elders scandalized? Greatly. Did this discourage the young ladies? It did not. Were there many in those days whose thirsts were bigger than their reverence for law? Yes, indeed. Did severe legislation noticeably decrease the quota of red noses? Alas, it seems not.

Was the domestic triangle far from matrimonial geometry even ran to polygons in various instances. Was the divorce evil conspicuous? No; but often those who could no longer bear the strain of watchful waiting resorted to suicide. Was there much "cussing" among the men folks? There was; and "cussing" by wholesome was the favored method, since the fine for a single "cuss" was greater in proportion than that for a whole series uttered in any given outburst. Once one got started it paid to keep on, for quantity production had its strong points then as now.

As for necking and petting, here is a bit of sober history: "In 1661 Jacob Minnie and Sarah Tuttle of New Haven were haled to court for violating the law, and the record shows that the purpose of their unlawful meetings had by no means been prayer and fasting. They sat down together," says the testimony, "his arm being about her, and her arm about his neck, and about the neck, and she kissed him (bravo!), and she kissed him (bravo!), and they kissed one another (three cheers for Jake and Sary!), continuing in this posture about half an hour." Moreover, Sarah denied that Jacob had (inveigled her affections), whereupon the Court fined her instead of him, and called her a "bould virgin."

One hopes Jake put up for the fine!

Were the outraged old folks—like Cotton Mather, for instance—always necessarily so pious in private as they seemed in public? Dunt ask! But anybody who really wants to know, will find Prof. Lawrence ready with some shocking answers.

NAPOLEON AND HIS FAMILY. The Story of a Corsican Clan (Madrid-Moscow 1809-1813). By Walter Geer. (Brentano's.)

This is the second of a series, the first of which, Corsica-Madrid, was published last year. The third, Moscow-St. Helena, is in preparation. It can hardly be claimed that Geer has added materially to the picture of Napoleon or of his family, but there is a certain value in assembling concisely into one work, a complete and connected digest of material hitherto found only in widely scattered spots. Geer writes conscientiously, yet unpedantically, as any one who has read his masterful "Campaigns of the Civil War" knows. What he says may be taken as authoritative.

CHARLES REBSTOCK WHO GAVE MILLION TO UNIVERSITY DIES

Philanthropist, 82, Succumbs After Illness of Five Weeks—Funeral to Be Tomorrow.

Charles Rebstock, retired wholesale liquor dealer and philanthropist who gave $1,000,000 to Washington University in 1925, died last night at St. Anthony's Hospital of the infirmities of age. He was 82 years old and had been seriously ill since Labor day. The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow from an undertaker's chapel at 1905 South Grand boulevard.

For 50 years Mr. Rebstock operated the firm of Rebstock & Co. at Main and Elm streets, retiring in 1920 with this advent of prohibition. He began as a poor boy and built up a fortune from which, in later years, he made liberal contributions to educational, charitable and civic activities.

The Rebstock Hall of Biology at Washington University, opened last November, was built with $300,000 of his gift. The remaining $700,000 was placed in the general endowment fund of the university.

Lived With Sister-in-Law. Mr. Rebstock lived at 3222 Hawthorne boulevard with his sister-in-law, Mrs. Anna Rebstock. His wife died 35 years ago and he had no children. His nearest surviving relatives are three nieces, two nephews, a grandniece and two grandnephews.

Born in Cincinnati, young Rebstock was brought to St. Louis by his parents when 14 years old. With only an elementary education, he found employment as a bookkeeper with E. Anheuser & Co., which preceded Anheuser-Busch, Inc.

Just after the surrender of Camp Jackson in St. Louis, his father, an abolitionist, was killed by a shot fired by a Southern sympathizer, and the young man was left to shoulder the responsibility of supporting his mother and two young brothers.

When he decided to go into business for himself in 1880, he was still with the Anheuser-Busch company. Busch helped him with unsecured loans and the young man spent five years in establishing his company on a firm and paying basis. Thereafter it grew consistently until it was recognized as one of the leading firms of its kind in the country.

Gift of Eye Disease Slides. After his retirement, Mr. Rebstock turned to philanthropy. In 1922 he purchased the Winterstein collection of microscopic slide studies of eye diseases, one of the largest collections of its kind in the world, from the University of Vienna, and presented it to St. Louis University Medical School.

He also made gifts to the Provident Association, the Missouri Association for the Blind and the Community Fund. He was a member of the corporation of Washington University, a director of the National Bank of Commerce and a director of the Industrial Loan Co. He was one of the founders of the Industrial Club in 1927, contributing $50,000.

For many years, Mr. Rebstock was an ardent traveler, making it an invariable practice to take a long vacation each year for that purpose. He visited every State of the Union, Alaska, Europe, Canada, Mexico, South Africa, China and Japan. During the last summer he considered another trip, but decided to remain in St. Louis because of his advancing years.

Until his last illness, he had never been seriously ill.

The surviving relations are the three nieces, Mrs. O. F. Harting of 2028 Shenandoah avenue, and her two sons, Charles R. and Hugh H. Harting; Miss Ada Rebstock of California and Miss Corinne Rebstock of the Hawthorne boulevard address; two nephews, Charles and Duane Rebstock of California; his grandniece, Dorothy Ann Rebstock of Hawthorne boulevard, and the sister-in-law. The funeral will be private.

SOCIAL ITEMS

ST. LOUIS CATHEDRAL was the scene at noon today of the marriage of Miss Helen Reyburn, daughter of Mrs. Amadeo Valle Reyburn, 4634 Lindell boulevard, and Elsworth Faysmouss Smith II, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sheppard Smith, 4334 Westminster place, one of the most fashionable of a long series of weddings scheduled for this fall. The ceremony was performed by Archbishop John J. Glennon.

A simple dignity characterized the decorations. Clusters of white chrysanthemums decorated the chancel and the foot of the altar and palms were arranged at either side. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Wilkins Jones. Miss Harriet Lane Cates was maid of honor and Mr. Smith's sister, Miss Mary Ambrose Smith, the newly crowned Velled Prophe queen; a cousin, Miss Marceline Reyburn, Miss Katherine Clays, Miss Nana Goddard and a younger sister, Miss Mary Reyburn, were bridesmaids.

The young women were gowned alike in crepe Elizabeth, Miss Cates in yellow, and the bridesmaids in cornflower blue, made with full double-tiered skirts in the long effect, with sleeveless bodices with capes which crossed the arms and were caught at the waist line in front. The gowns were finished with soft girdles of the material and a rhinestone ornament. Their slippers were of crepe Elizabeth to match the gown and they wore Agnes hats of blue felt in the poke fashion with a huge bow of blue velvet shading the right side of their faces. Miss Cates carried yellow roses.

The tall, stately bride was gowned in white duchesse satin, adorned with quantities of rare old rose point lace worn by several brides in the Lucas family and by the bride's sister, Mrs. Wilkins Jones and Mrs. Hunt Benoit, at their weddings. The gown was made in princess, quite long, with an empire train built into the skirt and sweeping the floor in a semicircle. The train was bordered with a wide band of the rose point lace which sloped to the waist line in front and formed a filmy front for the bodice. The front of the skirt was slashed and draped to reveal a deep rose point flounce. There were long satin mousquetaire sleeves and double satin trains four and a half yards long, from each shoulder. The bride wore her tulle veil arranged to her hair with a tight band of rose point caught with orange blossoms, and carried a white prayerbook marked with shower of lilies of the valley.

J. Sheppard Smith, Jr., was his brother's best man, and the groomsmen and ushers were another brother, Cabanne Smith, Ellet Kingman Ludington Jr., Pierre Loisell Papin, Elsworth A. McDougal Smith and Lindell Gordon Jr., cousins of the bridegroom, and Charles H. Gore.

Following the ceremony a large wedding breakfast and a reception were held at the home of Mrs. Reyburn. The receiving party stood before the mantel in the living room, which was banked with chrysanthemums in the autumn tints, with palms and ferns arranged at either side to form a semicircle.

The same colors were used in the other receiving rooms, with the walls and chandeliers garlanded with smilax.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were French vanity boxes. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will depart today for their wedding trip, and will make their home at the Ellington apartments upon their return.

The only out-of-town guests were Mrs. Benoit, of Greenboro, N. C., and Mrs. Fellowes of New York, both of whom are guests at the Reyburn home.

Miss Katherine Koerber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Koerber of Hampton Park, will be presented to society at a series of parties throughout the winter.

The first will be a dinner Thursday evening, Oct. 25, at the Koerber home, in honor of Miss Koerber, Miss Elizabeth Ferguson and Miss Jane Tyler Messick. The invitations will be sent out this week.

The young women who will be guests include Miss Mary Merwin Shepley, Miss Anne West, Miss Eleanor Church, Miss Ellen Walsh Bates, Miss Lullie Simmons, Miss Margaret How, Miss Alice Chapman, Miss Blair, Miss Lucy Thompson, Miss Dorothy Drew, Miss Medora Steedman, Miss Almira Steedman and Miss Marie Peckham Wilson.

Miss Frances Mary Shapleigh, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Watson of 1031 Goodfellow avenue, was married to C. Wilfred Buschman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. Buschman of 6163

Waterman avenue, at 9 o'clock this morning at St. Rose's Church. The Rev. J. J. McGlynn celebrated the nuptial mass. White chrysanthemums and white roses were used to adorn the candle-lit altar and standards of the same flowers against palms banked the chancel.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Meredith Shapleigh, as maid of honor; Miss Lucille Perry, Miss Alice Brokaw and Miss Eleanor Lynch as bridesmaids. Betsy and Frances Jones, young daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Jones Jr. of 5321 Cates avenue, were flower girls. Kenneth Buschman was his brother's best man, and Herman Kriegerhauser, Lucien Roy and Brazur Clare were groomsmen. Mack A. Aldrich and Frank X. Jones were the ushers.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown, a princess of tulle, tinted to a deep cream by the passing years. Old family lace trimmed the entire gown and more of the lace fashioned the long tulle sleeves. Her court train was of ivory transparent velvet lined with chiffon and the tulle veil was arranged with a cap of duchess lace adorned in tiny pearls and orange blossoms. The veil fell to the finger tips at the front and was caught to the train by orange blossoms. The bride's only jewelry was a necklace of 18 pearl medallions that has been worn by brides in the Shapleigh family for six generations. She carried bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride's attendants wore gowns of crepe romaine made with close fitting bodices with long, tight sleeves and a V neckline. The full skirts were short in front and ankle length in the back. The maid of honor was in robin's egg blue, with a large velvet bow of wood rose at the left side of the waist. The gowns of the bridesmaids were of the wood rose shade with velvet bows of robin's egg blue. They wore picture hats of maline trimmed with a bow of velvet at the right side of the brim and their slippers were tinted to match their gowns.

They carried white roses and white chrysanthemums. The flower girls wore frocks of white crepe de chine lace trimmed and carried baskets of roses and chrysanthemums. The bride gave her attendants rhinestone evening bags and Mr. Buschman gave his groomsmen and ushers monogrammed bill folds.

The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast held in the Italian room of the Forest Park Hotel. The table seating 35 guests was decorated with autumn flowers.

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.

A MOST perplexing thing about big executive jobs in New York is how easy they are to fill in emergency. It is true that opportunity makes the man, but judging from a few incidents recently that hit the nail on its widely discussed head.

The $100,000 a year executive of an established concern a year ago decided he had enough of business and its anxieties and resigned over night. Grave conferences were held as to his successor. Tempting offers were made to several recognized executives.

In the end, and as a mere temporary expedient, the son-in-law of the founder was drafted into service. He was one of those tennis playing enthusiasts with oiled hair usually found in flannelled ease on country club porches. He seemed disturbed by his new duties. And everybody tittered.

Yet in six months he almost completely revolutionized the business, and at the end of the year doubled its profits. As this is written two branch factories are being built, and the young man is no longer seen among gay haunts that used to know him so well.

The New York theater has an example in a tank-touring press agent who was given the opportunity to produce what was considered a mediocre play on Broadway and became one of the leading producers in a year. Two of the shrewdest movie financiers were second-rate newspaper reporters.

A chain store organizer who had been bounced from seven successive jobs became a $1500 a week executive in three months. He accepted the job for a month without salary to show what he could do. "I had no idea I could do it. It was a desperate chance," he said.

Perhaps the most notable example of all was that of a shipping clerk in a safety razor concern. He heard the general manager had resigned and wrote a letter which impressed the owner sufficiently to give him a trial. That was two years ago. Today he is a partner in the concern.

Many chuckle at the "Up From Nowhere" heroes of real life featured in the go-to-it-and-win magazines, and yet they offer more actual romance than heroes in fiction. If fictionized, we would like to sniff it wasn't possible.

LIFE continues its frankish disillusionments. As one who believed the fan mail of a movie star was delivered daily in trucks, I have the word of a recognized star that his weekly average is never more than 100 letters. Many columnists receive more than that.

THEN there is that delusion of smash notes sent to beautiful stage ladies. They are so rare that when received the recipient goes gadding about gaily showing them to whoever will read. Anna Held in her day was said to receive more than any other actress and this was due largely to a provocative song sung with much rolling of eyes at the audience. It rather invited flirtatious advances and many took her seriously.

WRITES a New Yorker: "Exactly 20 years ago I went with my wife to a restaurant on Fourteenth street serving a special dinner for 25 cents. Last night I paid $5 each for a dinner not so good, including the spinach."

And you were lucky you didn't get a sitting or so of sand in the spinach these days.

MANY of us who remember the 65-cent dinners of 15 years ago with a bottle of free red or white wine—but why revive all that? There are some still living who can even remember when druggists were druggists.

INDEED, I can remember back before the pocket lighter when it was natty to strike a match on the heel without losing a step, but I don't want to play this any more. I'm going back too far. (Copyright, 1928.)

WARNER M'CALL BUYS RARE LACE NAPOLEON ONCE OWNED

Point d'Alencon Bed Fittings Were Made to Order for French Emperor.

The Napoleon set of point d'Alencon lace bed fittings, said to be perfect specimens of the lace-maker's art, have been acquired by Warner S. McCall, retired capitalist of 5145 Lindell boulevard. McCall has an extensive collection of pictures by old masters and of historical relics.

The bed fittings were made to order for Napoleon when he assumed the crown. They were later given to Marie Louise of Austria when she became Napoleon's bride.

They include a bedspread, each by 75, two long curtains, each 12 feet by 8 feet, and seven and a half yards of valence curtain, 19 inches wide. The Imperial bed of the Emperor is worked in the lace, and the Napoleonic crown, with the lilies of France, appears in the corner.

McCall declined to tell how much he paid for the lace, which was bought at the King's Gallery in London.

men say, makes it a strategic line in any scheme of consolidation. Railroad interests are expected to be waiting the reaction of the Interstate Commerce Commission to a purchase. As individuals, the Van Sweringens are not amenable to the commission for the purchase of the stocks. They must obtain the commission's approval, however, to consolidate the line with any other of their roads.

The Van Sweringens have run out of the commission in several of their plans. They entered the railroad business but 12 years ago with the purchase of the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad, commonly known as the Nickel Plate, which was made primarily in connection with improving the real estate holdings in the vicinity of Cleveland.

RELIGION IS FIRST NEED OF COUNTRY, COOLIDGE ASSERTS

steam hoists and the tools of workmen at the edifice could be heard throughout the ceremony, even above the "Te Deum."

"We can not remind ourselves too often," the President said, "that our right to be free, the support of our principles of justice, our obligations to each other in our domestic affairs, and our duty to humanity abroad, the confidence in each other necessary to support our social and economic relations and finally the fabric of our Government itself, all rest on religion."

"If the bonds of our religious convictions become loosened, the guarantees which have been created for the protection of life and liberty and all the vast body of rights that lie between are gone."

Says World Backs Faith.
The present convention and similar organizations were taken by Mr. Coolidge as evidence that "the major forces of the world are actively and energetically engaged in promoting the spiritual advancement" of humanity.

"When," he continued, "we remember further that this movement is steadily advancing through the years, we realize that it provides a complete and devastating answer to the indifferent, the cynic, and the pessimist. We cannot doubt that the world is growing better."

This conviction should not blind the country to "the enormous work that yet remains to be performed and the long distance that must still be traveled before the goal of human perfection is reached," the President added. "There are almost whole continents still to be reached and large masses of people everywhere still to be given the advantages of modern civilization."

Mr. Coolidge warned his audience that America's influence in spreading its faith abroad will be largely dependent upon its conditions at home.

First Needs at Home.

"The light which we shed for others will depend upon the intensity of the flame which we create for ourselves," he said, adding that therefore, "The greatest service which we can perform for the world is to perfect our own moral progress. If we can do that, we need have no fear concerning the helpful influence we shall supply to others."

In this country, the chief executive saw conditions which require constantly increasing efforts for their betterment.

"The problem of the training of the youth of the nation," he said, "is one that is now and will be forever recurring. In spite of our great school system, our secondary institutions, our colleges and our universities, many of our young people are still growing up with the most meager advantages of education. There are large settlements of people in our great centers of population still living under foreign conditions. Although they are dwellers within our borders, they have never yet really come into the United States."

Not All Reap Benefits.

"We have provided by our institutions for a genuine method of self-government, but there are many of our people who, through indifference or inability, are not receiving the full benefits of such a system. In the midst of a high productive capacity and constantly expanding material resources, there are yet those who, through ignorance or misfortune, are not able to participate to the extent of their deserts in our economic progress. The forces of evil are constantly manifest and their opportunities for activity enlarge with the increasing complexities of our modern modes of life."

Declaring that while the Government does all it can to remedy what evils exist in society, the President expressed the view that laws do not alone meet the problem of human existence or furnish a sufficient foundation for human progress.

"Man is more than all these," he continued. "He requires the inspiration of a higher motive to meet the demands of a spiritual nature. They might furnish a partial explanation of an Alexander, a Caesar or a Napoleon. They fall utterly to account for a Hampden, or a Cromwell, or a Washington or a Lincoln, or for the long list of sacrificing missionaries, saints and martyrs who have devoted their lives to the higher cause of humanity."

Finds Religion Is Necessary.

"Organized government and organized society have done much and can do much. Their efforts will always be necessary, but without the inspiration of faith, they are inadequate to serve the needs of mankind. It is in that direction that we must look for the permanent sources of the ministrations of charity, the kindness of brotherly love and the renunciation of consecrated lives."

While the American people make great efforts to excel in industry and commerce, to strengthen national finances and generally to perfect "the material structure of our national life," Mr. Coolidge said the objects were not an end in themselves.

"They are but a means to a nobler character and a higher life," he said. "Unless that motive is provided from some other source, these activities inevitably lead back to the conclusion that the end justifies the means and that might makes right. We are not seeking an increased material welfare that leads to materialism; we are seeking an increased devotion to duty that leads to spiritual life. Such an effort would be in vain, unless our nation as a whole continued in its devotion to religion."

A Letter from a Veteran Smoker . . Ralph Mutter of Santa Barbara, Cal.

"Before I began to use Pebecco Tooth Paste my teeth were badly discolored from nicotine. I smoke a great deal—a pipe and cigarettes—and I could scarcely remember the time when I didn't have a vile taste in my mouth—a dried-out feeling."

"The first week I used Pebecco, however, my teeth showed an immediate improvement. They gleamed with a new whiteness. And my mouth felt really clean."

"I have been using Pebecco for at least six years and know from experience that I'll never go back to any other kind."

(Signed) RALPH MUTTER

"Smoking brings me a great deal of comfort," writes Henry L. Maxson of Des Moines, Iowa. "Nevertheless, it was discoloring my teeth and leaving an unpleasant taste in my mouth. Mouth washes and other dentifrices gave only temporary results. Finally my dentist advised Pebecco. I still enjoy my cigarettes—even more so—for my teeth are again white and gleaming, my mouth healthy and wholesome."

"No romance in a tobacco-flavored kiss"

Read this girl smoker's unusual letter

"All the girls in my crowd smoke," writes Miss Dorothy Shands of Dallas, Texas. "And the boys take it for granted. However, during a discussion one evening one boy quite frankly said a kiss flavored with tobacco lost its romantic appeal."

"I'm not especially interested in kissing—yet my own teeth were losing their whiteness and becoming stained from nicotine. My mouth had a perpetual 'bad taste' and I'm sure my breath must have been unpleasant at times."

"I saw your advertisement recommending Pebecco for women smokers and decided to give it a trial. And I want to say it is wonderful!"

"My teeth are whiter than ever before and I am entirely rid of the disagreeable tobacco-taste I always used to have after too many cigarettes."

THERE is no need now to suffer the unpleasant after-effects of smoking—stained teeth, dry mouth, tobacco breath.

Thousands of smokers have recently discovered a way to keep teeth white and sparkling. Breath sweet. Mouth fresh and moist.

They use a tooth paste different in formula—different in action from all other kinds—Pebecco.

Pebecco contains a special ingredient that gently stimulates the saliva. At its sharp, cool taste your mouth feels invigorated—refreshed.

Stains of nicotine are washed away. Your throat and mouth keep deliciously fragrant and clean. Your teeth become white and gleaming.

Give Pebecco a month's trial. See how you grow to depend upon it.

How many people you know end their colds with Bayer Aspirin! And how often you've heard of its prompt relief of sore throat or sinusitis. No wonder millions take it for colds, neuralgia, rheumatism; and the aches and pains that go with them. The wonder is that anyone still worries through a winter without these tablets! They relieve quickly, yet have no effect whatever on the heart. Friends have told you Bayer Aspirin is marvelous; doctors have declared it harmless. Every druggist has it, with proven directions. Why not put it to the test?

"I'm a 'nut' on chewing gum," writes Cliff Woodbury, "and when I say you folks have caught that tingling, Old-Time Peppermint Flavor in Baby Ruth gum, I talk as an expert. It carries me right back to the days I was a kid. I buy three packages most every day—one for myself and two to show my friends what a gum ought to be like."

You'll Like It, Too

The makers of Baby Ruth Candy Bar have set out to give you a fine gum—a better gum—equal in quality to Baby Ruth Candy—a new thrill to the nation's sweet tooth.

The flavor is that Old-Time Peppermint Flavor you remember as a kid—the coolest, most mouth-watering flavor in the world. A flavor that costs $6 a pound to buy, and that makes this the most costly gum in America today to make.

BUT—Baby Ruth is a gum like you have never tasted before. Everybody is changing to it. Try it. The biggest five cents worth of fun the country has ever seen.

During the mid-day he will attend a luncheon arranged for the state and county chairmen of the independent men and women organizations which are working in his behalf. The nominee has not yet turned his thoughts to the subject matter of the address he will deliver at Madison Square Garden that night, but he is putting in all his spare time on his Boston speech next Monday night. A nationwide hook-up for broadcasting both speeches has been arranged for by the national committee.

Sage Tea Turns Gray Hair Dark
By SHIRLEY BLAKE

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application of two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold. Don't bother to prepare the mixture. You can get this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, for only 75 cents, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair. Everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

ALMOST QUIT EATING
SO MANY THINGS HURT

"FOR a long time, I had a severe case of indigestion," says Mrs. Bell Buckheiser, of 7 River Street, Piedmont, S. C. "So many things that I ate hurt me, I almost quit eating until I was so weak and run-down, I could not do my work, or go about to see my friends. 'I would burn in my chest. I had severe headache, and such a tight, smothering feeling. I would be obliged to eat a little, and then it would hurt me. 'A friend said to me: 'What causes your smothering spells?' and I told her 'indigestion and constipation.' She said: 'Why don't you take Black-Draught more often?' 'I was just too weak then to do my work. I began taking small doses after meals, and in just a few weeks I could eat anything I wanted to, then take my small dose of Black-Draught and feel fine."

"I soon felt like a new person. I regained my health and strength, and could eat 'most anything. 'I am now seventy-five years old, I keep boarders. I cook for nine, and do all my work with ease, and feel strong and well. 'I haven't taken any other medicine for five or six years. I am rid of the stomach trouble, don't get constipated, and give all the praise to Black-Draught. 'Thedford's Black-Draught is a purely vegetable cathartic or laxative medicine, composed of selected medicinal herbs and roots. WEISBERG CAN'T REMEMBER WHERE HE SIGNED BONDS
Weisberg's Hearing Continued Until Oct. 25, Over His Attorney's Protest.
The examination of Ben Weis-

berg of 5624 Lotus Avenue, who filed a petition in bankruptcy July 25 listing assets of $5337 against liabilities of $22,605, was continued yesterday by Referee in Bankruptcy Coles over the protest of Weisberg's attorney, Joseph Boxerman.

that the case was being tried for the benefit of newspapers rather than for that of creditors.
The trustee asked for a continuance after Weisberg had testified that he could not recall in what police station he had signed bonds in the months preceding the filing of his petition. At a former hearing it was brought out that Weisberg had signed such bonds, although there were court judgments outstanding against him. The hearing was continued until Oct. 25.

CIVIC SOCIETIES ORGANIZE TO WORK FOR ROAD BONDS

Officers of St. Louis Bodies Meet at Mayor's Call and Unite to Aid Passage of $75,000,000 Issue.

Presidents and secretaries of numerous St. Louis civic organizations attended a meeting at City Hall today, at the call of Mayor Miller, to form a local organization to campaign for the $75,000,000 State road bond issue to be voted on in November as proposition No. 3. Executive speakers and publicity committees were named.

Business men already were engaged in soliciting a fund in St. Louis to aid the Citizens' Road Bond Committee of Missouri in its campaign. In this connection, the Automobile Club of Missouri has asked its members to contribute, saying that "an unknown organization with plenty of funds" is trying to defeat the proposition. This organization has circulated cards which, bond proponents say, misstate the facts about the issue.

If the bonds are not voted, the State Highway Department will have to revert to the pay-as-you-go plan of constructing and maintaining roads in the 7640-mile system, using for this purpose the revenue from motor license fees and the gasoline tax, which would defer completion of the system for many years. If the bonds are voted, they will be supported from the same sources of income, with increase of the license fees and gasoline tax prohibited for 10 years, the system will be completed in a few years, additional roads built around the metropolitan centers and elsewhere and a farm-to-market supplementary highway system created.

Proposal to Raise Gasoline Tax.
Leaders of the bond movement pointed out at today's meeting that should the constitutional amendment providing for the bonds fail, there was danger that the license fees and gasoline tax would be increased. Senator Palmer having announced that he would introduce a bill in the Legislature next year to double the present State gasoline tax of 2 cents a gallon.

To demonstrate how the old $60,000,000 road bond issue had been exhausted in building present highways, Roy F. Britton, president of the Automobile Club of Missouri, said that construction contracts dropped from $26,343,754 in 1925 to $18,575,819 in 1926 and only $8,161,303 last year. In 1925, he went on, $22 miles of the system were hard surfaced, 802 miles in 1926, in 1927 only 538 miles and this year, the chief engineer estimates, 264 miles. The program had reached the pay-as-you-go stage now, Britton declared.

When forces similar to the present bond proponents campaigned in 1924 for the proposition for the 50 per cent license fee increase and the 2-cent gasoline tax, Britton related, they promised the people that no further increase in taxes would be necessary for road purposes, and the present proposal maintains that pledge. Taxes for State road purposes alone have increased from $4.09 in 1917 to $11.19 last year. Britton continued, since they realize there is an insistent demand for speedy completion of the road system. In other states where higher gasoline taxes, the speaker explained, this revenue is not used for road purposes alone. Defending the proposed constitutional limitation on automobile taxes, Britton said the Constitution limited property taxes and the motorist was entitled to the same protection as the general taxpayer.

Lon Sanders, division chairman of the Citizens' Road Bond Committee, told the meeting that a vote for the bond proposition was a vote authorizing the State to use its credit in borrowing $75,000,000 for quick road construction. He declared that no state had ever succeeded in building an adequate highway system upon the pay-as-you-go basis.

important to St. Louis. Lloyd C. Stark of Louisiana, general chairman of the Citizens' Committee, asserted that the future welfare of St. Louis was bound up in this measure, inasmuch as the wider roads and bridges needed for proper access to the city were provided for in it, but were not assured under the pay-as-you-go plan. The only real opposition, he added, came from one or two individuals who were misrepresenting the facts.

J. Gates Williams, chairman of the Finance Committee, related that $90,000 was the minimum campaign fund needed, including $40,000 from St. Louis, but that only $8500 had been raised here.

President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service declared that broad entrance roads into the city provided for by the bond issue were essential to the development of St. Louis.

A motion was carried to form the Citizens' Road Bond Committee of St. Louis. Sanders will announce its official personnel on Friday. About 100 persons attended the meeting today.

RUTH'S 3 HOME RUNS ENABLE YANKS TO SWEEP SERIES

UMPIRE PFIRMAN'S ZEAL UPSETS SHERDEL, PAVES WAY FOR CARDS' COLLAPSE

By J. Roy Stockton.

Far into the winter of their discontent Cardinal partisans will be frying Mr. Cy Pfirmman on the hottest griddle of the Hot Stove League and hanging him in effigy in the public square. And perhaps it is well that there is such a person and that he made a decision that can become the topic of conversation, the choicest morsel of the angry and disappointed. It will help the partisans to forget that the Cardinals, champions of the National League, were as so many children in the hands of the terrible Yankees.

Pfirmman's decision on that Sherdel pitch to Babe Ruth does stand out in early retrospection of this mad world series. But did the Cardinals show any right to be declared victors over that stalwart squad of fence busters from Manhattan? Even if Pfirmman had called that a strike, would it have made any difference? True, the Cardinals staved off the challenge of that powerful New York juggernaut for six innings and that strike, if called, would have been the second out of the seventh inning.

But would that have availed the Cards anything? Surely Sherdel is too old a campaigner to admit that one little vexatious decision could transform him from a master pitcher to a thrower of home run balls. That would have helped in that seventh inning, but Sherdel still had to face Gehrig and in later innings Gehrig and Ruth again. Perhaps he would have carried on to victory with the aid of that one strike. But it is dubious.

No, it was just one of those things. An upset, if you go back and view it with the background of the predictions from the experts. Everybody said the Yankees had no chance, that it was cruel to send those poor hobbling men out on the field to do battle with the Cardinals fit for fight. And they were. With that back-

Mental Attitude to Two Clubs Before Opening of Series Affected Outcome

Had the Cardinals looked at the series in that way, there might be a different story to write, a story of how the underdog scratched and clawed and finally got hold of the enemy's throat and shook him until the little scrub got the best bone and, wagging its tail contentedly, trotted to its winter kennel triumphant.

But the Cards had the wrong slant on this series. They thought when they were fighting the Giants and the Cubs and the Reds that they were fighting for the right to manhandle the Yankees and when they took the field and found that the Yankees refused to be downed and take a kick in the ribs they didn't know what to do. They had planned to mop up the field with a prostrate foe and found that the foe, instead, was armed to the teeth and ready to fight for every inch of ground.

After taking three straight trouncings, two at New York and one before a stunned crowd of friendly fans at home, the Cardinals used a day of rest to gather their resources and patch their morale and really gave the Yanks

The Method of Sherdel's Delivery Is Not Point in Dispute, Says Umpire Pfirmman

Sherdel had this one-run lead as the Yanks went to bat in the seventh and that slim margin was becoming more and more important as Sherdel pitched himself out of one hole after another. Sherdel opened the seventh by getting Koenig on a pop fly to Maranville.

Then he put over two strikes on Ruth. Ruth was in the batter's box. Sherdel took a throw from Smith. He had his foot on the pitching rubber. He went through all the legal requirements of pitching. He took a wind-up. The official scorers, a New York writer, one from Boston and one from St. Louis, stated afterward that they all had watched Sherdel and that he had pitched legally.

But before the series started there was a conference with umpires, managers and captains attending, at which it was decided that the "quick return" would not be permitted in the series. The quick return is a bit dangerous. The American League prohibits it, but it is all right in the National League. When a pitcher causes a batter to sleep in the batter's box in the middle of an argument with the umpire over one pitch, the smart thing is to throw one over the plate and the umpire will call it a strike.

Quick Return Was Barred. Sherdel knew the quick return would not be tolerated, so he made or tried to make a legal pitch out of what would amount to the same thing. But Pfirmman, remembering that there had been such an agreement to bar the quick return, made the mistake of thinking that Sherdel had forgotten. He thought Sherdel was going to make an illegal pitch and put up his hand to call time. He

McKECHNIE HAD ONLY ONE YEAR CONTRACT HERE

BILL McKECHNIE, manager of the Cardinals, was working under only a one-year contract with the St. Louis club. While there have been rumors that he would be replaced as leader of the team next season, Owner Sam Breadon has made no announcement to that effect.

"There will be changes, of course," said President Breadon this morning. "We have made them every year. However, what these will be I cannot say at this time."

ground, an almost unanimous forecast that the Cardinals would win, the series was an upset.

But it is hard to look back on those Yankee victories, those crushing defeats of the Cardinals, as upsets. The truth must be that the background was all wrong and that the proper viewpoint should have been taken into consideration—that in Ruth and Gehrig the Yankees had two of the greatest sluggers of all time and that in Hoyt and Phipps they had two outstanding pitchers, and that the Cardinals, while champions of their league, had barely staggered to their league triumph.

U. S. TO COLLECT ABOUT $80,000 TAX ON SERIES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The Government expects to collect about $80,000 in taxes from money paid by baseball fans to see the New York Yankees win the world championship. The amount, from preliminary estimates, will be the smallest except once, in the last five years.

The Government tax on tickets sold to the four games, according to preliminary estimates, will be $77,729, but it is expected to be swelled through the additional tax on ticket speculators and agencies. In addition to the regular tax, Government gets five cents on each ticket sold at 50 cents above the regular price and 50 per cent of the excess if the resale price is more than 50 cents above the regular price.

The Government tax on the Washington-New York series was $108,177; on the Washington-Pittsburgh series, $118,423; St. Louis-New York series, $120,789, and on the Pittsburgh-New York series of last year, when only four games were played, the tax was $78,650.

had started to call time, the Yankees would have raised a big hullabaloo and perhaps Ruth, peeved at having a home run taken from him, might have struck out on the next pitch.

"Umpire Pfirmman Spoiled a Nerve Play"—Breadon

"That unfair decision by Umpire Pfirmman nullified a smart and nerve play," Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals, said after the game. "It was a legal delivery. Ruth was in the box and Sherdel took his windup and pitched a ball right over the plate. Pfirmman didn't contend that this was a quick return. He merely thought Sherdel was going to make a quick return and called time, he says. Nobody heard him call time."

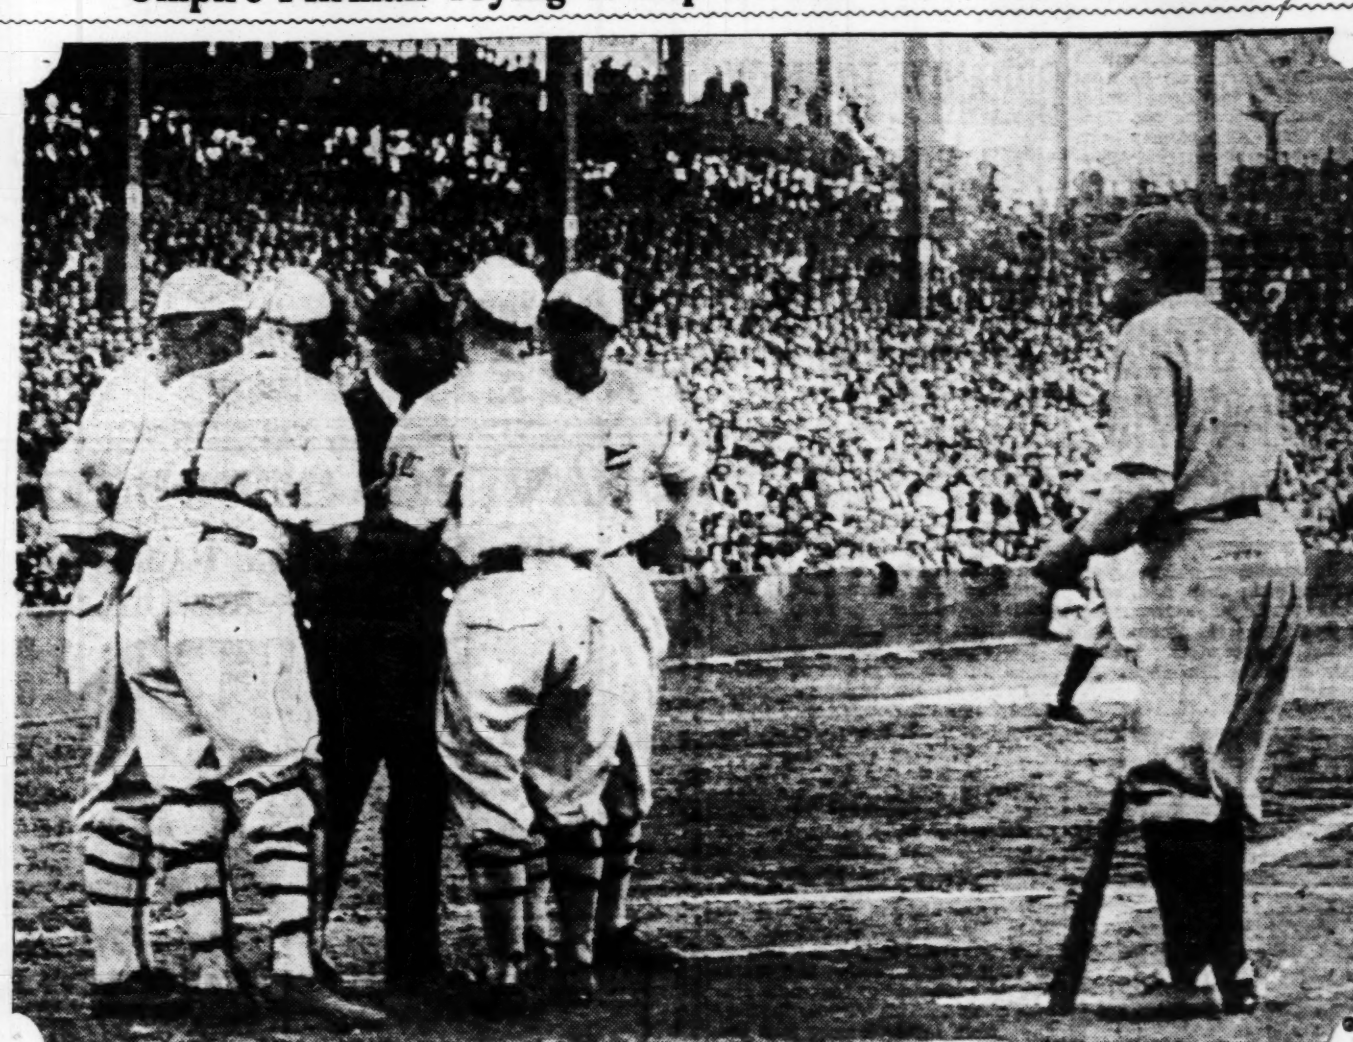

"That was enough to rattle Sherdel, he put one over a little too good and Ruth tied the score. Sherdel is one of the smartest pitchers in the game and Pfirmman's mistake was in thinking that Sherdel didn't know what he was doing."

"The Cardinals hustled this afternoon and were a winning ball club until that break gave the Yankees their big chance. If they had hustled that way they would have won Sunday and we might still have a fine chance to win the world title."

Sherdel maintained that it was not a quick return. Pfirmman declined to argue that point and stood on the fact that he had called time or started to call it and that therefore it could be neither strike nor ball.

One wonders what would have happened if Ruth had guessed that

Umpire Pfirmman Trying to Explain His "No Pitch" Decision

In the seventh inning of yesterday's game, Sherdel slipped over what the Cardinals considered a legal third strike on Babe Ruth but Umpire Pfirmman called it "no pitch," neither a ball nor a strike. He was immediately besieged by irate Cardinal players. Ruth, highly amused, is shown at the right of the knot of arguing players.

Hilarious Yanks Turn Their Train Into a Play House

By the Associated Press. EN ROUTE TO NEW YORK WITH YANKEE SPECIAL, Oct. 10.—Like a lot of college boys or a gridiron squad going home from the big game, the Yankees celebrated the night of their world series triumph in hilarious fashion.

The joshing, joking and rough house tumbling centered about Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, the clowning twins. It spread the length of the train when these two led a campaign to rip off the shirt of every one they met, or coat and vest as well, if they happened to be in the way. Buttons by the quart were strewn from one end of the special to the other.

Ruth, in high spirits, was the most sophisticated of the group, being accused of putting a cracked egg in Les Durocher's coat pocket and entering the dining room with a pet dog the size of a toy, to lead a cheer for the dear old team.

Jack Hendricks said before the game: "Well, it looks like they have us down."

He amended that to "complete" out" when the contest was over. This Charley Peterson can do something beside make fancy shots on a billiard table. Yes, sir. He caught a foul ball. We saw it or otherwise we would not believe it.

George Moriarty was at the series. He thinks he is through at Detroit as manager and may go back to umpiring. And he was not the worst official in the majors when he was on duty.

Worst umpires' decisions: McGowan on Douthitt in second game at New York and Owens on Koenig Sunday.

Of course that omits the one by Pfirmman. But it will take a long time to iron that one out to the satisfaction of all.

And now we are without experts. Most of them left for their homes early to start the football campaign.

With nothing but the Hot Stove League and the spring training trips to think about.

Then another season, followed by another world series.

And the Cardinals hope to meet the Yankees in 1929. Nothing could be fairer. Here's hoping.

Our pitching was great. It won for us. And I'm happy that I was able to contribute my share. But the thing for which I am most happy is that I got the last out. That ball will stay in my locker for a long, long time.

The hero of the series? Lou Gehrig. Any man who can drive in seven runs in four games can hit for more than $50,000, can pound out four home runs and get on base safely in nine consecutive times at bat deserves all the honors. We're all proud of Lou. We think he's the greatest coming player in the business. Watch him and see.

I want to say a word of credit for Miller Huggins. You know the fans often forget the manager. And Hug is not the sort of chap to hug himself forward. He's reporting and shy, but he knows his baseball. He didn't make a single mistake in the series. He stayed by Phipps when some of us thought he should take him out—and Phipps proved he was right.

In the final game, when we were one run behind, he refused to play for a tie despite the fact that some of us wanted to. He was right again. He's a great manager and he deserves a lot of credit. He has made the Yankees and it's time the world recognized that fact.

Our pitching was great throughout the series. I don't know when a pitcher has shown more stuff than Waite Hoyt has, not only in this series but throughout all those weeks at the end of the season when our club was shot and the Athletics were pressing us close. Waite, to my mind, is the greatest right-hander in the game today. I think he has proved it.

The tough luck champion of the series is Willie Sherdel. Unless I had seen with my own eyes, I wouldn't have believed it possible for any pitcher to pitch four such games as he has pitched against the Yankees and lose them all. (Copyright, 1928.)

JAYHAWK SQUAD IN HARD WORKOUT By the Associated Press. LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 10.—The Jayhawk football squad was put through one of the most intensive drills of the season yesterday afternoon.

Backfield candidates were given a hard drill in blocking the line. A full period of scrimmage probably would be in order today, Coach Harris said.

WE SAY IT WITH BASE HITS; THAT'S ALL---BABE RUTH

By Babe Ruth.

Well, the cripples came through. And whatever may be said about our playing, or our pitching, or our hitting, there's one thing I don't think anyone can deny. They can't say we didn't have courage.

I never expected to win the series in four straight games. It takes a lot of good breaks to do that. We got them.

But I doubt it we could do it again. The Cardinals are a better team than they showed in this series. They're tough anytime—and I'll say one thing for them. They never quit. They were battling as hard at the finish as they were in the first game.

Our hitting was great. It won for us. And I'm happy that I was able to contribute my share. But the thing for which I am most happy is that I got the last out. That ball will stay in my locker for a long, long time.

CARDS BEATEN BY A STRONGER CLUB---M'GOWAN

By John J. McGowan.

Manager New York Yankees. There is no use to offer excuses for the defeat of the Cardinals. They were simply beaten by a stronger ball club.

The lack of condition on the part of the Yankees, so much talked of before the series, cut no figure at all. I never saw Ruth play any better and Combs was not missed.

Of course the turning point in this last game was the decision of Umpire Pfirmman in not allowing the third strike that Sherdel put over on Babe Ruth, which he tied the score with a home run over the right field stand.

Later developments amply indicate that the decision was made no difference anyway, but did change the whole complexion of the game. When Ruth hit a ball it seemed to take the life out of Sherdel, who had been a streak of hard luck in world series games.

Question of Quick Return. The whole point was whether Sherdel's pitch could be called a quick return. Before the series I understood it had been agreed by the two clubs that returns were not to be allowed. A quick return is generally called a ball shot back at the pitcher without the pitcher winding.

That leaves it to the judgment of the umpire as to whether the ball was a quick return. The Cardinals claimed that Umpire Pfirmman called time while Sherdel was in the middle of a windup. He insists that it was a ball shot back at the pitcher at the end of the series. After an umpire calls time there is no play. Nothing counts whether it is a home run or a strikeout.

Yanks Had Too Much Punch. When all is said and done, though, the Yanks had too much punch for the Cardinals. The only chance was to start a hitting streak and they could get up to that mark.

At the beginning of the game it looked as if the Cardinals had struck their stride. They played a snappy game in the field and the hitting of Bill Sherdel and the hitting of Bill Sherdel and the hitting of Bill Sherdel.

The main point, however, is that the Cardinals were beaten by a stronger ball club. That is an answer. (Copyright, 1928.)

TRACES OF OLD ESKIMO CIVILIZATION UNCOVERED

Superior to That of Present Day Arctic People, American Ethnologist Reports.

By the Associated Press.
SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 10.—Traces of an old Eskimo civilization, far superior to that of the Eskimo of today, were found this summer on Alaskan islands in the Bering Sea, Harry B. Collins, ethnologist and archeologist for the Smithsonian Institution, said today on his return from Alaska.

Ancient villages, more pretentious than today's settlements, long houses made of driftwood and whalebone were found on Sledge and St. Lawrence Islands, besides ivory and bone carvings of exquisite design, and highly decorated utensils and weapons.

"It was a civilization far richer than that of the present, pre-Russian probably," Collins said. "It was from 300 to 800 years old."

"The discoveries do not prove that the Eskimos came from Siberia. The Asiatics may have migrated from Alaska in the beginning."

"We found houses 16 feet below the habitation of this generation and six feet below sea level. Buried in the silt and the sweepings were bits of carving, bone, ivory, all the utensils of living, and the remains of extensive villages. We found also the bodies of some of the ancient people rather well preserved in ice."

recommends yeast in place of the old-fashioned cathartic

Famous Harley House, where Dr. Leonard Williams and other leading London physicians have their offices

DR. LEONARD WILLIAMS, Fellow of the British Royal Society of Medicine; Corresponding Member of the American Climatological Society and the Hydrological Society of Paris; he has served as physician at the Metropolitan Hospital and the Millar Hospital and the Princess Hospital for Soldiers; author of Minor Maladies, The Science and Art of Living and other works.

"Yeast possesses a power of physical purification superior to all the purgatives. It rouses the system to full physiological efficiency."

"A large number of persons at or about middle age have forgotten what it is to feel perfectly well. They are not ill but they are... For such I should like to prescribe less feasting and more yeasting."

Leonard Williams

IN THE words of Dr. Leonard Williams, famous British authority on glandular and intestinal disorders, "Yeast is superior to every known cathartic." Dr. Williams' conclusions, reprinted from articles in many leading newspapers in the United States, carry the weight of a life-time of research.

Why does this eminent physician recommend yeast so strongly? Why does he say it is more than a medicine—superior to all laxatives known?

Because, to quote his exact statement, yeast "rouses the system to full physiological efficiency."

Fleischmann's Yeast is a plant, fresh as any garden vegetable. It does not purge, but prevents the formation of poisons by keeping the entire intestinal tract clean, active and healthy.

Nobody escapes constipation completely. Between "not being sick" and being really healthy and vigorous there is a vast amount of difference.

For keener spirits, renewed vigor and a clearer, fresher complexion, eat Fleischmann's Yeast regularly. In a recent survey in the United States, more than half the physicians reporting said they prescribed yeast for constipation and its attendant ills.

Start now! Eat three cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast every day, one cake before each meal or between meals. To get full benefit from yeast you must eat it regularly and over a sufficient period of time.

At all grocers and many leading cafeterias, lunch counters and soda fountains.

90 per cent of your ills start here

Here is where yeast works. From throat to colon is one continuous tube. Poisons that form in the intestinal tract spread through your body—to blood, skin, throat, head. Fleischmann's Yeast keeps this entire tract clean and active. Headaches, colds, skin eruptions disappear—when natural, complete elimination takes place with Fleischmann's Yeast.

The TWENTIETH CENTURY MOLCH

Moloch was a fire god. Ages ago parents cast their children into his lap—hoping thus to gain the favor of this deity. Inhuman! Ghastly! But no more so than today's mad sacrifice to fire—that carries not even the hope of reward the pagans had. About half a billion dollars a year direct loss; a yearly toll of 15,000 lives to make the record gruesome. The Presidential proclamation preceding

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK—OCTOBER 7-13
is sufficient evidence of the seriousness of the country's avoidable fire waste. The solution to this problem is a community matter. More than six hundred cities and towns have committees on fire prevention and control. These function effectively all year.
Stimulated by the President's proclamation, thousands of communities, through civic bodies, business organizations, schools and other means, observe Fire Prevention Week.
In support of such movements the

The 224 Stock Fire Insurance companies constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters invite the cooperation of each community in a careful study of its needs in the prevention and control of fire. MILLER WOULD 'CLEAN UP' DRUNKEN DRIVERS Promises That as Circuit Attorney He Would Rigorously Prosecute Cases.

Driving while intoxicated, felonious flight and other traffic crimes which are felonies under the law, should be prosecuted as such by the Circuit Attorney, former Circuit Judge Franklin Miller, Democratic candidate for Circuit Attorney, declared last night at a First Ward meeting at 214 East Grand boulevard.

Only by rigorous prosecution of serious traffic offenses can the streets be made safe for pedestrians and careful drivers, Miller declared in his speech, which he repeated at a Twenty-fifth Ward meeting at 627 North Kingshighway boulevard.

"It would be my greatest desire," he said, "to see that flagrant cases as traffic violation are kept in Circuit Court. If such cases remain in the police courts, the probability is that the offender drivers will be slapped on the wrist and told not to drive for 30 days.

"Drunk and careless drivers are potential criminals. The drunk driver, particularly, is more dangerous than the wild beast. If I can clean up the traffic situation in this city I shall have made a long step toward cleaning up the office of Circuit Attorney.

"The flagrant violations of the traffic laws are felonies. They should be prosecuted as such."

Without referring to Circuit Attorney Siderer, his opponent in the election, Judge Miller outlined the functions of the office of attorney and pledged himself to a conscientious and rigid observance of his obligations.

He repeated his condemnation of "fixing and fronting," and reiterated his promise that cases brought before him would be tried on their merits only.

He again declared his intention of procuring speedy prosecutions for criminals, and repeated that, when cases are continued or postponed, a written statement giving the reason for the action should be filed with the court record of the case in question.

PAVING FINE BRIDGE ROADWAY

Laying of asphalt between the rails of the car tracks, for a mile on the eastern end of the Municipal Bridge, to replace rougher paving, began today. The city is doing the work at a cost of about $2000.

Several weeks ago, similar work was done at the west end of the bridge. Special traffic policemen were detailed to the bridge today to handle the jam caused by the temporary narrowing of the roadway.

FORMER HEAD OF MISSOURI EASTERN STAR SUED FOR LIBEL

Mrs. Genevieve Wyatt of St. Louis Defendant in $15,000 Action of Kansas City Woman.

By the Associated Press.
ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 10.—While the State convention of the Order of Eastern Star was progressing here yesterday, a suit alleging libel and echoing a Kansas City murder case of more than two decades ago, was filed in Circuit Court by one member against another.

The plaintiff is Mrs. Josephine Myers of Kansas City, an attorney, and the defendant is Mrs. Genevieve F. Wyatt of St. Louis, Past Grand Matron and Grand Secretary of the Order of Eastern Star of Missouri. The suit is on three counts and a total of $15,000 damages is sought.

Papers were served on the defendant while she was officiating at a session of the order. Mrs. Myers alleges Mrs. Wyatt to "defame, injure and malign the good name, reputation and fame" of the plaintiff, wrote three letters on Eastern Star stationery, in which Mrs. Myers was referred to as Aggie Myers. It is further alleged these three letters were printed in pamphlet form with the heading "Read and Be Convinced," and circulated among delegates and members of the Eastern Star.

The person to whom the alleged letters were sent is designated in the petition only as Josephine.

The plaintiff says she is no relative of Aggie Myers, said to have been mentioned in the alleged letters. Aggie Myers was convicted of murdering her husband, Clarence Myers, in conspiracy with Clarence Hottman, 30 years ago. Hottman died in the penitentiary, but Aggie Myers recently was paroled. Mrs. Myers is a member of Golden Gate Chapter No. 53, O. E. S., in Kansas City.

Scenes in the Final Game of the World's Series When the Cardinals Lost the Championship to the Yankees

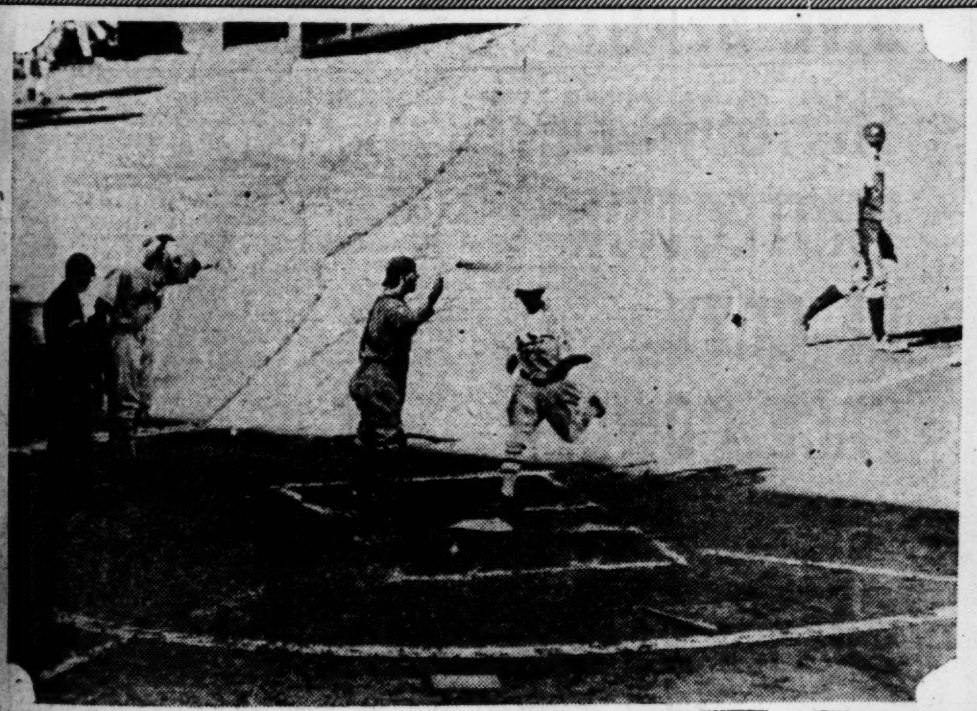

Most of the St. Louis players take part in the argument with the umpires over Sherdel's "quick return" pitch to Ruth in the seventh inning. Ruth, in the foreground, seems to be the least concerned.

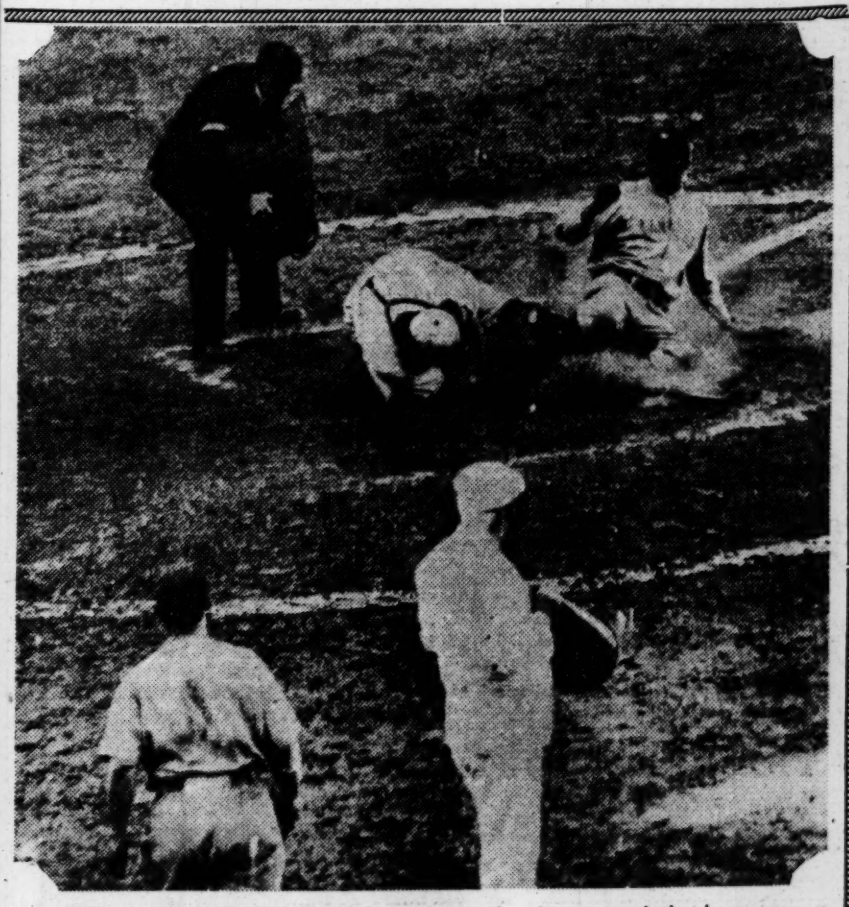

Lou Gehrig congratulates Ruth with a little kick after the Babe had made his second homer.

And when Ruth crossed the plate with his third circuit hit he waves to the crowd while Gehrig shakes his hand.

I'LL TELL THE WORLD

By Neal O'Hara

THE CAMPAIGN UP TO DATE.

So far, in the opinion of expert observers, it is impossible to estimate the political power that the modest birthplaces of the candidates have on the voters. O. O. P. architects who have studied pictures of Hoover's ramshackle West Branch, Ia., birthplace say it is worth $600,000 votes for Herbert.

Democratic architects dispute this figure. They say three-quarters of the low rent vote will go to Smith after the electorate have seen rotogravure pictures of Al's old home in Oliver street, New York.

Both tickets are fortunate in having funny looking little places where their candidates were born. When voters go into the polling booths they will think of Hoover's dinky little four-room frame dwelling in West Branch or Smith's humble tenement in that poor but honest Manhattan neighborhood and say, "I'm going to give this poor little guy a boost." Then they will mark their ballots to send Smith or Hoover to the White House.

Of course, the ideal candidate for President should have been born in a log cabin. For some reason, people will vote for anybody born in a log cabin—probably for the novelty. For the same reason, a candidate who was born in a cyclone cellar or a taxicab would sweep the country.

However, log cabins are scarce these days. In order to get one to be born in, you have to send to Chicago and get the pieces by parcel post. Then you fit the logs together, following directions closely, and by the time you have the log cabin erected, someone offers you $12,000 to let them use it for a hot dog stand or a tea room and it is really too valuable to use for a dwelling.

The result is Abraham Lincoln is the last President to be born in a log cabin. But the size of his 1860 and 1864 pluralities shows the idea is sound.

Although Hoover's West Branch place just off the Smith's Oliver street home, there is no danger of a deadlock throwing the election into Congress or the Socialist ticket sneaking through. This is because the Republicans have a tremendous advantage in the matter of their vice presidential candidate's birthplace.

Mr. Curtis was born in an Indian tepee. This is such an overwhelming advantage that the Democrats have just had to ignore the place where Joe Robinson was born. It happens to be a neat and tidy cottage in the South, but a picture of a neat and tidy cottage placed alongside an Indian tepee in a rotogravure section would just about blast Mr. Robinson's chances. So the Democrats are soft-pedaling the issue of what kind of a house their vice presidential nominee was born in. Even Al Smith, in his acceptance speech, didn't dare to touch on it.

In fact, it is Curtis' wigwam birthplace that will give the edge to the G. O. P. It is even a better vote-getter than the $12-a-month house Coolidge lived in when elected Vice President. That is why Curtis is rated 150 per cent stronger than Coolidge among readers of rotogravure sections.

The Democrats made their big mistake in their hurry to nominate a Vice President and get out of Houston. They did not take the time to look at pictures of the places where their various vice presidential candidates were born. Instead, they went ahead blindly and nominated Robinson, a man who was born in a fine looking house. And right there he lost 80 per cent of his thunder, because you can't go running pictures of a fine looking birthplace in the papers when the opposition is ready to spring an Indian tepee.

But 1928 should be a good lesson to the Democrats. We predict that four years hence the Democratic ticket will be two men who were born in shanties. And the campaign will be fought in rotogravure sections and not on the radio.

Kitchen Kinks

Peanut butter mixed with an equal amount of creamery butter makes a good sandwich filling.

A few drops of lemon juice will bring out the flavor of a fruit cocktail.

A few tablespoons of catsup in the pan with the baked fish gives it a delicious flavor.

A sprig of fresh mint and one or two maraschino cherries make plain lemonade so much more attractive.

How to Polish Oilcloth.

Now that so much attention is being given to the oilcloth on the kitchen table, it would be a good idea to add to its beauty as well as wearing qualities. Clean the oilcloth well and rub it with liquid wax, then polish—an iron wrapped with flannel or a soft cloth will make a satisfactory polisher. A table oilcloth thus treated occasionally can be kept clean more easily and the service of the oilcloth will be materially extended.

THE GARDEN IN THE FALL

(National Garden Bureau)

BRILLIANT BLUES FOR SPRING.

BRILLIANT blue is one of the characteristics of the early spring garden furnished by two little bulbs that should be planted in quantity. They first appear in the air. These are the scillas and the grape hyacinths. There are a number of scillas or squills, as they are popularly known, but the best known and best liked is the Siberian squill, Scilla sibirica, with its rich blue stars that come in April. They are the most intense blue in the garden at this season and have few rivals in blueness during the entire season.

They are small bulbs that can be used to carpet an entire garden with no interference with other plants, as the foliage dies down early and is none by the end of May. It is not harmed in the least if foliage of other plants grows up and covers it. These bulbs should be planted by the hundred and thousand. Later scillas are the English bluebell, scilla nutans, and the Spanish hyacinth, scilla campanulata, which comes in rose, white and blue. These scillas are of larger growth than the Siberian squill and bloom later, but make fine masses of color and die down early enough to be out of the way of later plants.

The Heavenly Blue grape hyacinth, a muskrat, botanically speaking, gives the most intense color, following the Siberian squill, of any plant in the garden. It is one of the gems among the little spring bulbs and is not as well known as it should be. A near relative, the old-fashioned grape hyacinth, in paler blue with a white variety, is also very useful and commonly grown. The Heavenly Blue grape hyacinth makes a fall leaf growth which is not injured by winter freezes and each bulb sends up several spikes of bloom. It is one of the finest of the spring bulbs for massing and makes a beautiful contrast with the white poet's narcissus which blooms with it.

The Heavenly Blue grape hyacinth is of larger growth than the old-fashioned one. It has taller and longer spikes and is not such an indefatigable colonist as the old type, which spreads rapidly and gives fine patches of blue. The scillas and grape hyacinths seed freely and volunteer bulbs will spring up in quantity if given a chance. They require three or four years before coming to blooming size, but offer an easy way in which to secure a large stock.

They are fine bulbs to associate with some of the very early blooming perennials, the Heavenly Blue often furnishing a fine companion for the bleeding heart.

Place cantaloupes in paper sacks and store in the ice box and they will not flavor other foods.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

A FRIEND INDEED.

The independent, it is clear, Have very little cause for fear.

—Jimmy Skunk.

JERRY MUSKRAT, Mrs. Muskrat and Johnny Chuck, back to back in the carrot-patch, were facing Reddy Fox on one side and Mrs. Reddy on the other. They knew that as long as they remained back to back they were comparatively safe, but they couldn't remain that way forever. They knew it and Reddy and Mrs. Reddy knew it.

Jerry and Mrs. Muskrat wanted just one thing now and that was to get to the water. They hadn't a great way to go, for the Green Meadows were flooded. But the distance was too great for them to reach the water before Reddy and Mrs. Reddy could pounce on them. They kept looking longingly over towards the water. It was a great temptation to break and run. But Johnny Chuck kept growling to them to keep where they were.

Johnny was trying to think of some plan whereby Jerry and Mrs. Muskrat could reach the water and he could reach home. As it was now he wouldn't be safe without the Muskrats and the Muskrats wouldn't be safe without him. The three together were fairly safe, but separated none would be safe. "I wish Bowser the Hound would come over this way," thought Johnny Chuck. "I cannot think of any one I would be so glad to see as Bowser the Hound or Farmer Brown's Boy. The sight of one of those coming this way would be to me the finest sight in all the Great World."

At that very instant Johnny happened to look over to the corn growing back of where Reddy Fox was sitting. He thought he saw someone moving in between the stalks. Yes, there was that movement again! Who could it be? Johnny did his best to watch the corn, and to watch Reddy Fox at the same time.

Whoever was over in that corn was in no hurry to come out. "Perhaps he won't come out at all," thought Johnny. "But I hope he will. If it is the one I think it is I shall be just as glad to see him as I would to see Bowser the Hound or Farmer Brown's Boy."

A few minutes later there walked out into the carrot-patch a gentleman in a black-and-white coat. He had a bushy tail, which he was carrying partly erect. He didn't hurry in the slightest. Reddy Fox didn't see him for Reddy was back to him. But in a moment Mrs. Reddy barked a warning. Reddy turned like a flash.

"Good morning, Jimmy Skunk!" said Reddy, in his most polite manner.

"Good morning, Reddy!" replied

"What would you say to a bit of tenderloin of Muskrat?" inquired Reddy.

Jimmy Skunk. "This seems to be quite a gathering this morning. As I live, I believe I see Johnny Chuck and Jerry Muskrat and Mrs. Muskrat. What are you doing, having a party?"

"Not yet," replied Reddy, "but perhaps we will have a party—a breakfast party. Will you join us if we do?"

Jimmy Skunk grinned. "What are you proposing to have for breakfast?" he inquired.

"What would you say to a bit of tenderloin of Muskrat?" inquired Reddy.

"Humph!" grunted Jimmy. "I would much prefer filet of Mousse with a Grasshopper salad."

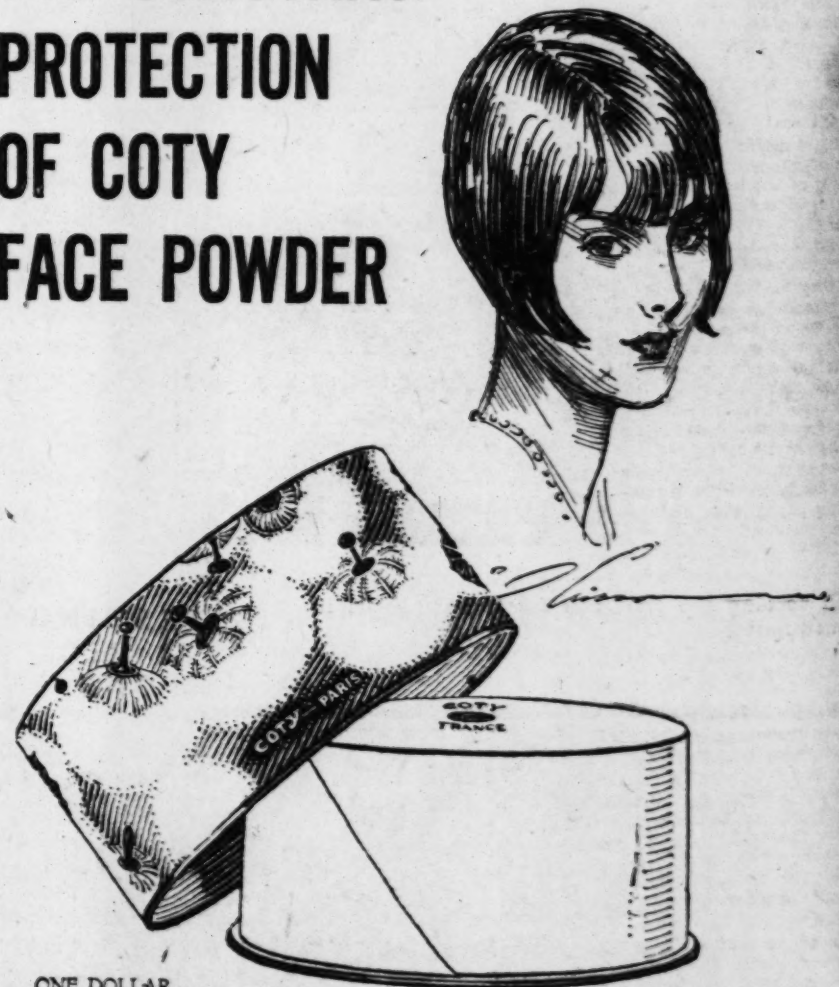

All the time he was talking Jimmy was moving towards Reddy and Reddy was getting uneasy. He was backing off, yet doing his best not to appear to be backing away. Johnny Chuck chuckled when he saw it.

Grape Juice.

Stem and wash the grapes. Then pour enough water to cover over them. Boil until the grapes are cooked. Strain and sweeten to taste. Set on the stove until the sugar is well dissolved and the juice comes to a boil. Pour while hot into patent-topped bottles, filling to overflowing and seal immediately. The grape juice may be diluted to taste if found too strong when ready to use.

If It Is Right in Material, Cut, It Looks Right, After Hard Usage, Anything Fussy Is Wrong.

By BUSVINE.

THERE is a great deal of "sense" in the choice of the riding clothes. That is, a woman wearing the right riding clothes shows signs of sense, even if they always look as if they were made of gold.

First of all, the material which your habit is made of should be very closely woven, thick and stand hard wear. It should stand saddle and boot, and against the wind, and not tear when it is rubbed through thorns and branches as you are galloping across country.

Even light-weight habits climates must be made of closely woven fabric or the fall into line in no time. For hunting, and even for riding, it is better to have a ton cloth skirt than one made of whipcord, for Melton cloth like a board. It can be worn again and will stand a year, and when it ultimately begins to wear will serve for weather with leather patches help out the parts that are most friction.

A black or navy blue cloth habit, coat as well as skirt is the smartest for hunting. A skirt is out to lie across the left side of the body in a perfectly straight line, hanging from about two inches above the toe of the right boot to from eight to ten inches below the toe of the left boot. The side falling straight line from the back saddle without any fold or over.

Costs are now made about the smartest line just the top of the saddle. It is remembered that shirtings riding clothes are governed by practical considerations than price. The longer coat that the horse's back is apt to be tucked in when trotting, and is not only ugly but uncomfortable. The hunting coat is curved slightly at the waist just to the line of the figure, but it is not too loose. Riding clothes not fall, they must never stretched tight.

SOME women insist on their riding coats cut round the armholes and fitting like a tailor-made. The mistaken impression that makes them look slim. This is the worst error. It may well in the mirror when the standing still, but if they cut the ugly line this causes discomfort in motion they work. Also, remember you may want to put on an sweater under your coat. It should be possible without a great deal of tightness.

Opinion is divided as to smartness of one slit at the side or the back of the coat, or each side of a center panel. A coat slit at the center back is a little better, the other must be at the top of the saddle. Either correct. One or two buttons be used to fasten it is from the waist better than two, and perhaps better than two, and should fall in a flat, straight line on each side of the right without any fold or pucker.

Straight sleeve may either be laced with four small buttons, or touching each other, as man's lounge jacket, or with inch turn-back cuff fastening link buttons that can be down over the hand in bad weather. This latter is particularly recommended for hunting coats.

The weather is often bitterly cold. An inside windscreen cuff with elastic hand is also a wise provision for the hunting coat, for it is more uncomfortable than cold hands.

If you want one hacking habit for all occasions and for riding in town, navy blue is as good a choice as any. You can change with a light coat in or blue tweed with an overcheck. For the country brown shades are good and snazzy than gray. A plain brown with a light tan tweed coat extremely well.

If expense is a matter of importance you can have a weight whipcord skirt for summer; but it will only wear season's hard riding, or with two. For very hot weather coat the color of natural tuss is a great comfort. There is a new cloth called Solaris, very light weight, with an underweave red that is a great protection against the rays of the sun. We are using in enormous quantities for habits for tropical climates. About breeches. It is better to have special breeches made for middle riding rather than to make the same pair do both side saddle and astride. In the case you require a length from hip to knee, an inner strapping of leather needs to be sewn on in a part way in order to avoid uncomfortable folds under the right knee.

Light tan or fawn breeches fashionable both for side saddle and astride. Real suede or moiré leather breeches are a delight for those who afford them. However, they are very good and meet the requirements of most people. Light breeches are smart.

Not Much Chance for Flights of Fancy in the Riding Habit

It Is Right in Material and Cut, It Looks Right, Even After Hard Usage; While Anything Fussy Is All Wrong,

By BUSVINE.

PARIS. THERE is a great deal of "horse sense" in the choice of the right riding clothes. That is why a woman wearing the right clothes, even if they show signs of hard usage, always looks absolutely right and one who has gone in for flights of fancy in her attire absolutely wrong.

First of all, the material of which your habit is made must be thick and very closely woven in order to stand hard wear, friction against saddle and boot, and so that it will not tear when brushed through thorns and branches when you are galloping across country.

Even light-weight habits for hot climates must be made of specially closely woven fabric or they will fall into holes in no time.

For hunting, and even for park riding, it is better to have a Melton cloth skirt than one made of whipcord. For Melton cloth wears like a board. It can be cleaned time and again and will stand the hardest riding if relined about once a year, and when it ultimately does begin to wear will serve for bad weather with leather patches to help out the parts that get the most friction.

A black or navy blue Melton cloth habit, coat as well as skirt, is the smartest for hunting. The skirt is cut to lie absolutely flat across the left side of the saddle in a perfectly straight line, stretching from about two inches below the toe of the right boot to show from eight to ten inches of the left boot, the side falling in a straight line from the back of the saddle without any fold or wrap over.

Coats are now made rather short. The smartest line just clears the top of the saddle. It must be remembered that shirons in riding clothes are governed rather by practical considerations than by caprice. The longer coat that reaches the horse's back is apt to get tucked in when trotting, and this is not only ugly but uncomfortable.

The hunting coat is curved in slightly at the waist just to define the line of the figure, but it must be cut loose. Riding clothes should not fall, they must never be stretched tight.

SOME women insist on having their riding coats cut tight round the armholes and close-fitting like a tailor-made, under the mistaken impression that this makes them look slim. This is one of the worst errors. It may look well in the mirror when they are standing still, but if they could see the ugly line this causes directly they are in motion they would be horrified. Also, remember that you may want to put on an extra sweater under your coat. This should be possible without an effect of tightness.

Opinion is divided as to the smartness of one slit at the middle or the back of the coat, or one at each side of a center panel. The coat slit at the center back may be a little long, the other must clear the top of the saddle. Either is correct. One or two buttons may be used to fasten it in front. On a man's lounge jacket, or with a two-inch turn-back cuff, fastened by link buttons that can be turned down over the hand in bad weather. This latter is particularly to be recommended for hunting coats, as the weather is often bitterly cold. An inside windscreen cuff with elastic band is also a wise precaution for the hunting coat, for nothing is more uncomfortable than cold hands.

If you want one hacking habit to serve for all occasions and for riding in town, navy blue is as good a choice as any. You can ring the changes with a light coat in gray or blue tweed with an overline check. For the country brown and tan shades are good and smarter than gray. A plain brown skirt with a light tan tweed coat looks extremely well.

Expense is a matter of no importance you can have a light-weight whipcord skirt for the summer; but it will only wear one season's hard riding, or with luck, two. For very hot weather a silk coat the color of natural tussore is a great comfort. There is also a new cloth called Solaris, very light in weight, with an underweave of red that is a great protection against the rays of the sun. This we are using in enormous quantities for habits for tropical climates.

About breeches. It is better to have special breeches made for side saddle riding rather than try to make the same pair do both for side saddle and astride. In the former case you require greater length from hip to knee, and the extra strapping of leather also needs to be sewn on in a particular way in order to avoid uncomfortable folds under the right knee.

Light tan or fawn breeches are fashionable both for side saddle and astride. Real suede or chamois leather breeches are a luxury that is delightful for those who can afford them. However, whipcord is very good and meets the requirements of most people.

Light breeches are smart with a

Jodhpore habit in gray whipcord, jacket slightly fitted at the waist, made of hand-woven Scottish tweed in gray flecked with black and white.

This drawing shows an especially cut mackintosh in light tan rain-proof cloth, very light in weight, to wear over side-saddle habit. It is made to follow the line of the right knee of the skirt. Both collar and cuffs button tightly, giving the smart effect so much demanded.

Hacking habit with short jacket having a slit up each side of center back panel. This is made of beige tweed with a large line check. Plain brown skirt, shirt cut like a man's, knot tie and brown bowler hat.

Regulation hunting habit fitting slightly at the waist fastened with two buttons. The velvet collar is a matter of taste. Yellow or check waistcoat, regulation stock and top hat.

plain dark habit when worn by a slim woman. For those who take to riding to reduce their weight I strongly recommend breeches that match the skirt, for they look much better. Even a slim woman looks better in the latter kind if she is wearing a fancy tweed jacket with a plain skirt, for the effect of three different materials and colors makes the ensemble rather patchy.

For riding astride plain tan or bright reddish brown breeches look well with a tweed coat or one of covert coating. Some women like their coat to reach nearly to the knees, but they are in the minority, for the tendency is more and more toward shorter coats. Chick breeches used to be considered smart with a plain dark coat, but now they are very old-fashioned. Browns and tans are better than grays for astride riding.

A GREAT many women have taken to wearing jodhpurs with low oxford lace shoes for riding astride. These undoubtedly look extremely smart when they are perfectly cut to hang in an absolutely straight fold in front and follow the line of the calf at the back of the leg. Two of the best horsewomen in Paris so like jodhpurs that they wear them even side saddle for hacking. This looks very womanlike, but it cannot be compared for smartness with the effect of a well-cut boot.

The coat worn with jodhpurs can be shorter than that worn with breeches; but in either case for riding astride it is best to have a coat slit up the back.

No less important than the riding habit itself are the accessories that accompany it. Most women who own horses ride in all weathers. We have designed a mackintosh for wearing side saddle that is remarkably practical, for it is as light as a feather in weight, cut to follow the line of the right knee over the pommel, and comes to within a few inches of the hem of the skirt. With the collar buttoned up and the cuffs strapped, it enables you to brave the elements at their worst.

The hard felt bowler for hacking and the tall silk hat for hunting have their raison d'être not in fashion but in common sense. The best-mannered horse will shy upon occasion, and if you are not lucky you may hit your head against a tree or some equally unyielding object. The hard hat breaks the blow. The soft, picturesque felt will give you absolutely no protection at all. A string veil neatly fastened round the hunting hat is a great protection against prickly branches when riding through a thicket and prevents the mud thrown up by the horse in front of you from getting into your eyes.

THE best horsemen and women usually wear a hard hat on all occasions, not in order to be formally dressed but for this practical reason. And it may be noticed that the best riders are the most prudent in small things, for there are plenty of risks one is obliged to take.

The white stock that forms part of regulation hunting kit is often worn for hacking in the winter by very chic horsewomen because it protects the most delicate part of the chest. The stiff starched pique has a certain smartness that nothing else ever quite equals; but soft stocks of silk or crepe de chine are now the most fashionable. They must be cut to your own measurements and neatly tied with one wide end folded over the other and held in place with a wide, plain pin.

Yellow chambray leather gloves, stitched with black, handsomely and cut sac shape, are correct for hacking; the same in white for hunting, with an extra pair of knitted string ones slipped under the strap of your saddle to put on over the leather ones if it happens to rain, for they prevent the reins from slipping.

Your hunting crop will have a long horn crook with which to open gates, and especially to pull them closed behind you. In England it is usual to have the leash twisted round the handle of the crop. In France ladies who have the hunt button may carry the leash hanging in order to whip up the hounds.

In the winter you will require a cloth waistcoat to wear under your riding coat. Plain Newmarket yellow is very smart, but many women like cream-colored cloth with a fairly large line check pattern in gray. With a very dark habit a red waistcoat looks well. It must be cut in proportion to the line of the jacket, reversers so that it appears about an inch above the jacket opening.

A good, stiff crop is best for hacking when riding side saddle, as it takes the place of the leg on the right side to press the horse forward rather than to hit him.

Polka Dot Variations

THE polka dot finds re-awakened interest this fall because of its occasional appearance in unique interpretations. Reacting from an almost deplorable universality, this attractive design is now employed more warily and with a surprising effect.

Furs succumb to the dotted motif in a few rare versions. In fabrics, satins and velvets offer all new variations. A wondrous shaft of blue sheer rayon velvet apparently given over to the dotted theme on close inspection proves to be patterned in diminutive white stars.

NEW DRAPERIES for A FEW CENTS By Mae Martin

All of us realize nowadays how bright-colored draperies seem to invite people in, and how warm touches of color in spreads, cushions and runners help to make us love our own surroundings.

No woman need deny herself these touches of cheer, because they can easily be had at the expense of a few cents and a little planning. Curtains that are faded or drab in color can be made bright and pleasing with a package or so of Diamond Dyes. Then spreads, covers, runners, etc., can be tinted or dyed to match. Anyone can do it. Tinting with Diamond Dyes is as easy as bluing, and drying takes just a little more time. Brilliant new colors appear like magic, right over the old, faded colors. Diamond Dyes give true, fadeless colors. They are the kind of dyes used when the cloth was made. Only Diamond Dyes produce perfect results. Insist on them and save disappointment.

My new book, "Color Craft," gives hundreds of dollar-saving suggestions for beautifying your home and clothes. 64 pages, fully illustrated in colors. It's FREE. Just write Mae Martin, Home Service Department, Diamond Dyes, Burlington, Vermont.

THE real danger in make-up lies in the way you remove it. For unless it is removed each night carefully and thoroughly, pores will clog, skin will be blemished and sallow. Cleansing your skin with palm and olive oils as uniquely embodied in Palmolive Soap keeps its texture fine, its color glowing and youthful. They penetrate and cleanse like nothing else will do. Every night do this: Gently massage Palmolive lather into the face for two minutes, using your hands. Allow the oils to penetrate and cleanse each pore. Then rinse with warm water, then cold. Dry by gently patting with a soft towel. Lucky?

When she comes to the footlights to acknowledge Broadway's applause of her marvelous dancing in "Side-walks of New York," theatre-goers sit forward to admire her youthful charms; the fresh crispness of her rose-petal skin and her gleaming black hair. She's Virginia Clark, of 143 Twenty-third St., Jackson Heights, New York City.

"When friends say I'm lucky to have such clear skin and soft, shining hair," says Miss Clark, "I have to tell them it isn't luck at all. In my case, it's the result of care. For my hair, I use the simple method that's all the rage among New York girls now. It's so easy. All you do is put a little Danderine on your brush each time you use it. This makes my scalp feel just grand and keeps away all dandruff. It keeps my hair and scalp so clean I don't have to shampoo nearly as often as I did. It makes my hair soft and easy to dress; holds it in place, and gives it more lustre than brilliantine!"

Danderine quickly removes that oily film from your hair; brings out its natural color; makes it fairly sparkle. Dandruff disappears when you use Danderine. Waves, set with it, stay in longer. It isn't oily and doesn't show. All drug stores have the generous 35c bottles. Over five million used a year!

WAGE CUT AND 10-CENT CASH FARE PROPOSED

Stanley Clarke, Street Car Executive, Suggests Sale of Tokens in Quantities at 7 1/2 Cents.

PLANS 5-CT. AN HOUR PAY REDUCTION TO Firm's Spokesman Invited by Chairman Ing of Street Commission to Apply for Revised Rate Schedule.

Instead of a straight 8-cent fare, the St. Louis Public Service Co. proposes a 10-cent cash fare with tokens at 7 1/2 cents if purchased in quantities, and wants to cut wages of its 4600 train and street car men 5 cents an hour.

Both measures were advocated by Stanley Clarke, executive vice president of the company, in a wage arbitration hearing before the Public Service Commission at the City Hall today, as financial relief for the company, which, he said, would earn in 1928, $1,275,000 less than the $4,500,000 which the commission has decided is entitled to a fair return on its property.

The company also submitted the arbitrators a form of contract which it desires with its men, so the arbitration issue because the fairly joining the union having previously submitted their demands, which included an increase of 8 cents an hour.

Asks Clarke for Statement.

Commissioner Calfee asked Clarke how he accounted for statement that the eight-cent fare would produce less revenue than the commission had estimated.

Clarke replied that other factors of transportation were taking passengers from street cars and that a full eight cents from each passenger. He explained that rush hours many passengers dropped less than eight cents in fare.

The conductor, busy with people crowding into the car, unable to detect the short fare, in a majority of cases, Clarke added.

He then remarked that perhaps a 7 1/2-cent token fare would produce more revenue as straight eight cents.

Ing Says It's News to Him.

Chairman Ing said it was the first time he had heard of such a proposal, and asked Clarke why the last fare increase the company had not made the suggestion.

Clarke replied that the company had inherited the eight-cent fare from the receiver, that it already had dragged a long time and that the company feared that any modification of the receiver's application might result in further delay.

"But I have shouted our position from the housetops," Clarke said.

"Get off the housetops and get in a petition to the Commission," Ing replied.

In response to a question during recess, Clarke said the company would not again sell two tokens for 15 cents, but that it might sell for 10 cents or six for 45 cents.

The effect of the company's wage proposal would be to make the street car men's wages 74.433 of $1247.675 deficit in earnings.

The company thinks it can save $100,000 by changes in working conditions. The owners' share of the deficit then would be reduced to $1247.675.

Clarke said he thought many should be shouldered the entire $1,247,675.

Street Car Patronage Declines.

Figures of the company show that 2,373,389 fewer passengers rode street cars in the first eight months of 1928 than during the corresponding period of 1927, the maintenance of a decline of about 10 per cent in number of passengers, which has been constant in the last several years as business and private automobile have made their inroads upon the street car patronage. The company's balance sheet for the first eight months of this year shows a net income of $14,439,439.

Wages are 63 per cent of operating expenses. The company's present wage is 7.5 per cent of the present wage.

Tramway now receive 50 cents an hour during the year. The street car men now receive 62 cents an hour during the year.
